The 1962-63 "Echo" staff dedicates, with deepest gratitude, the 1963 "Echo" to Miss Edna Fuller.

Since coming to Spring Arbor College, nine years ago, Miss Fuller's life has been a constant source of inspiration to those with whom she has had association.

Her consistent life of true humility has won numberless friendships, lightened many sad hearts, and earned the respect of all.

To you, Miss Fuller, we say a sincere "Thank you" for all you have done for us, the community and for Spring Arbor College.

Before-School Fellowship

Spring Arbor College’s Fifth Student Leader’s Conference was held at the beginning of September this year at Wampler’s Lake. Approximately thirty new and returning Spring Arbor students met together to discuss and plan ways of making this year a fruitful one. Some members of the faculty and administration were present to participate in the discussion and planning. Many good times were shared and friendships formed; but its greatest value was that, early in the year, it provided capable students for positions of responsibility and encouraged them to make leadership an important part of their education.

College Retreat

Yankee Springs was the setting for the annual All-College Retreat. Students and faculty members packed their luggage, their bedding, and themselves into the school bus and many automobiles. Schoolwork was almost completely forgotten as everyone enjoyed the recreation and scenery. A slide series on wild-life and nature was the entertainment for the night that was spent there and some of the college talent was spotlighted. Getting to know each other, both students and faculty were aware of close Christian fellowship, the most important part of retreat.

Retreat was enjoyed on the Chief Noonday Group Camp grounds. The scenery was beautiful, the food delicious, and the fun fast and furious.

Volleyball games were played all day with different teams competing against each other.

Climbing up out of the Devil’s Soup Bowl turned out to be quite a bit harder than falling down into the deep gulley.
The First Days of School

The first days of school were busy but exciting for freshmen and sophomores. Freshmen made new friends, met their teachers, and took what seemed like scores of orientation tests. Sophomores renewed friendships, recalled fond memories of last year, and helped freshmen find their way around.

Dean Harold Darling advises Harold Klassen on his proposed schedule at registration for classes while Mr. Eric Johnson counsels another student.

The College-Community Reception held in the U was a time of introduction and handshaking. Many persons from the community, the faculty, and most of the sophomores made up a long reception line through which weary freshmen traveled.

After the introductions and handshakings were over, the audience split into two groups for antiphonal singing. The faculty and community people congregated (see picture, below) on the steps of Ormston Hall, and the freshmen and sophomores gathered on Muffitt Hall's steps.

Dave Coilver leads singing at the Mix-and-Match festivities held in the gym. This get-acquainted game might feature much of the college talent and lots of good fun.

Busy filling out their long blue forms, students are seen here in the school gymnasium as they register for courses for this year.

Doug Smith gives Beth Clune her first glimpse of the 1962 Echo. Ann Gallbreath sits at the typewriter ready to register Beth.

Freshmen and Sophomores registered on the steps of the Administration Building.

Bill Crusaders and Bob Kroger are welcomed by Dave Cain on their first day on campus. Bob, in the center, appears to have an extra pair of hands; handy for carrying all that luggage!
An eminent historian has said, "Beware of an idea whose time has come." Evidently his intense study of world history had revealed the fact that momentous events turned upon ideas. Christianity, the Reformation, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment, and even Communism would illustrate the dramatic historical force of some of these timely ideas.

As a follow-up to this thought, another scholar has written, "If you see a movement coming, lead it." He is saying that a timely idea needs timely leadership. This is quite in contrast with the general in the French Revolution who strapped on his sword and headed for the door saying, "The mob has just gone past. I must hurry and follow them for I am their leader." While the idea may have been good, his leadership was too little and too late.

American higher education is in need of a timely idea and timely leadership. This is particularly true of Christian higher education. Frequently colleges are built upon ambiguous ideas or upon conflicting ideas. These are the institutions that spend their time trying to catch up with educational ideas that have already gone past them. Spring Arbor College, however, has the distinction of an idea whose time has come and the opportunity to give timely leadership in a moment of crisis for the Christian college.

In your memories, 1962-63 can be noted as the Year of the Idea because it was during this time that the college "logo" was officially introduced and became the symbol of The Spring Arbor Concept. This was also the year that the college took leadership action. A new sense of involvement in the life of learning was introduced through the Curriculum. A deepened sense of commitment to Jesus Christ was established throughout the campus. A new organization for participation was developed in the form of government.

Because Spring Arbor has a timely idea for the Christian college we remind you that in a time of need, your college has emerged as one of the most exciting institutions in Christian higher education. The Echo for 1962-63 tells us that the idea of the "logo" will remain a meaningless abstraction unless it is embodied in the persons we call Trustees, Administration, Faculty, Students.

It was a real shock for the college and the community to learn of the serious injury of Mr. Henry Ryckman in his home on November 3, 1962 and his subsequent home-going on November 6, 1962. Henry brought his family to Spring Arbor in the fall of 1948 in answer to President Gregory's request for instructional help in the high school departments of industrial arts and music. Though his main area of instruction was industrial arts, he did assist as needed in mathematics and social studies and gave some help in special maintenance problems.

When the high school program, including industrial arts, was terminated in June of 1961, Mr. Ryckman elected to continue with the College in maintenance work, thus keeping his family in the influence of the Spring Arbor community, church, and college, rather than moving elsewhere to teach industrial arts. His continued faithful service to the college until his home-going was greatly appreciated. As he enjoys a much deserved rest, it is hoped that many more will assume his mantle of effective faithful service.
ILLUMINATION
Spring Arbor's Campus Council is yet another indication of progress in the school. This form of student government was introduced this year following an affirmative vote by the student body. The Council had been proposed by Dr. McKenna and the rest of the faculty and administration. In this form of government, students and faculty pool their efforts and discuss mutual problems. Thus far, the Campus Council has proved effective for a situation such as ours.

For many years the Student Government has provided leadership in the areas of religious, social, academic and athletic life. This year has been no exception. Steps have been made to gain a clear picture of the Spring Arbor concept. Future years will tell the story of the foundation of the thought given to the building of the Spring Arbor image of which we may all be proud.
On behalf of the "Echo" editor, we are happy to present this year's "Echo".

We are proud to say that this is Spring Arbor of 1962 and 1963 and it is our hope that the student body will share our pride in this publication.

Don and John were among the many hard workers whose efforts contributed to the success of the 1962-63 "Echo".

Talented, energetic, and enthusiastic-this is the "Echo" staff. These students shared many hours of decision making which would determine the success of the "Echo".

Under the guidance of Ray and Joyce and with the aid of Mr. Whiteman, the editors of this year's yearbook attempted to provide an attractive annual for the students of Spring Arbor, for faculty and administration, for alumni, and for friends. It is the hope of each of the staff members that this yearbook will bring many hours of enjoyment to its readers and that many happy memories will be recalled by reading it in the years to come.

The editor-in-chief of the ECHO, Ray Koerner, appears pleased with the progress of his staff.

Paper Concludes Nineteenth Year

In 1943, Mrs. Florence Gilroy Munnis, feeling that the students of Spring Arbor needed the enlightening, entertaining, and challenging aspects presented by a student newspaper, instituted a mimeographed publication which she entitled the Re-Dit. As with any new organization, the early Re-Dit staff faced a multitude of problems, but Mrs. Munnis and staff persevered and as a result the paper improved and grew.

From that day forward, the efforts of the Re-Dit staff have been focused on improving and growing. This year has been no exception.

The tremendous advancement which the paper has made throughout the 1961-62 academic year has been highlighted by two recent events.

The first of these two events was a change in the name of the paper from its original name Re-Dit to the new name The Spring Arbor College Crusader. The name change, which had been a controversial issue for several months, became effective upon the ratification on May 11th of an amendment to the Student Association Constitution. The name change had been approved on several preliminary ballots but could not become effective until the May 11th vote.

The second featured event in the Crusader's third year was the announcement that they have moved up from fifth place to third in the nation in going to private junior colleges. Alumni may well be proud of their efforts.

In the Decade of Development program, alumni are still being sought.

Busy Summer Ahead

Debate

With Miss Maddox as coach the debate team has attended tournaments at Wayne State University and Flint Junior College. As a class of first year college debaters we are eagerly anticipating our spring tournaments.

Young Republicans

The Young Republican Club is a newly organized group under the leadership of John Mitts and the aid of Dr. Coleson. The club's purpose is the further acquaintance of Spring Arbor College students with politics within this area, state, and nation. The club, endeavoring to fulfill these purposes, has had many good speakers and has attended various local Republican meetings.

With the combined efforts of the officers and students, the Student Education Association instructs and prepares prospective teachers. New insights about teaching are discovered, and the students are given an opportunity to explore this particular field.
Missionary Convocation

"Call for Reapers" was the theme of our missionary Convocation. This spiritual emphasis became possible only through the efforts of the Community Church and College F. M. F. The purpose of the missionary convocation was for a renewed consecration and dedication of hearts. This purpose was achieved when many went forward to give their lives over to Christ and His calling.

F. M. F.

Besides being a newly chartered club, as well as a very active one, the Foreign Missions Fellowship is of great importance to the spiritual tone on campus. It acquaints the students with various missionaries and their way of living.

Our Church Family

The Free Methodist Church in Spring Arbor has long been a source of inspiration and spiritual guidance for the students of the college. The new pastor of the Free Methodist Church and his family come to Spring Arbor from Beaver Dam, Wisconsin, where Rev. Sebree was Superintendent of the Wisconsin Conference.

"To belong to the ever-growing Spring Arbor family is a blessed privilege! To this family belong the members of a warm-hearted church, a dedicated faculty and an energetic student body. Together we share our joys, our tears, our cares, our prayers, our aspirations, our inspirations and our hard work. Together we are experiencing the strength in teamwork; together we are knowing better our Lord. Greetings to the Spring Arbor Family everywhere! Congratulations to those who have joined us so recently! Invitations to those who are looking for a Liberal Arts education centered in Christ. The Spring Arbor Family is united in heart, in mind and in hand for the noble task of providing "quality education -- thoroughly Christian" enhanced by enduring friendships and enriched fellowship with our living Lord.

Pastor Herbert T. Sebree

Christos

The Christo Volunteers is the religious club for laymen on Spring Arbor's campus. The purpose of Christos is to train young men and women to help the churches at home. Christos is very helpful for it has Service training courses and other types of programs to inform the layman of his duties.

The Ministerial Association, under the able leadership of Don Hawkins, has been one of the leading religious clubs on our campus this year. It is the oldest religious club on Spring Arbor's campus. The purpose of the Ministerial Association is to help prepare young men and women for the Ministry.

PARTICIPATION
Freshman Tony Mifsud displayed championship qualities this year as he led the cross-country team to a highly successful season. Competition this year, for Tony, included placing second in the Michigan AAU 6.2 mile run, fifth in the national junior AAU run, and fourteenth in the National Track Federation Championship run at Ohio State University.

Tony Mifsud in his usual leading position.
