

editors' letter:

Hi-dee Ho Neighbors,

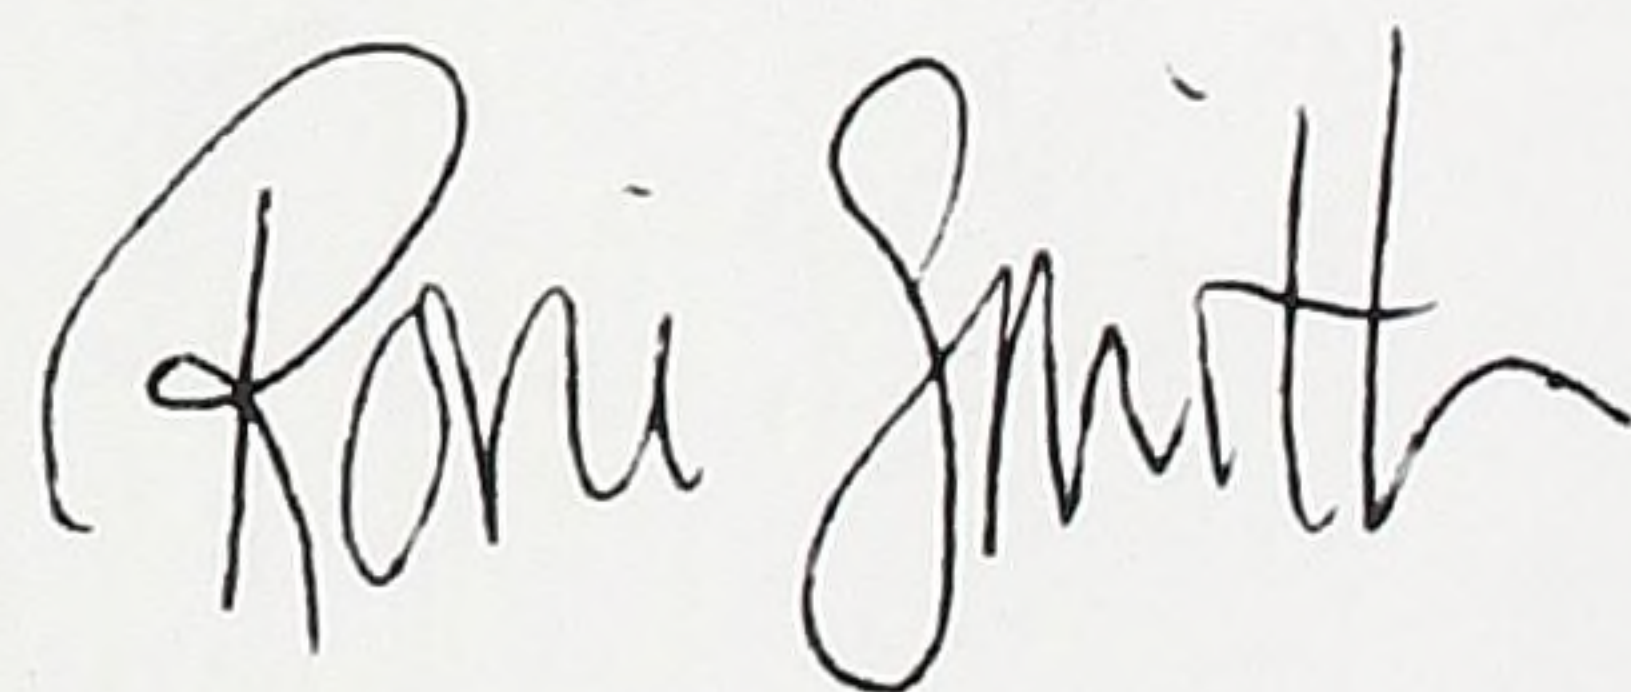

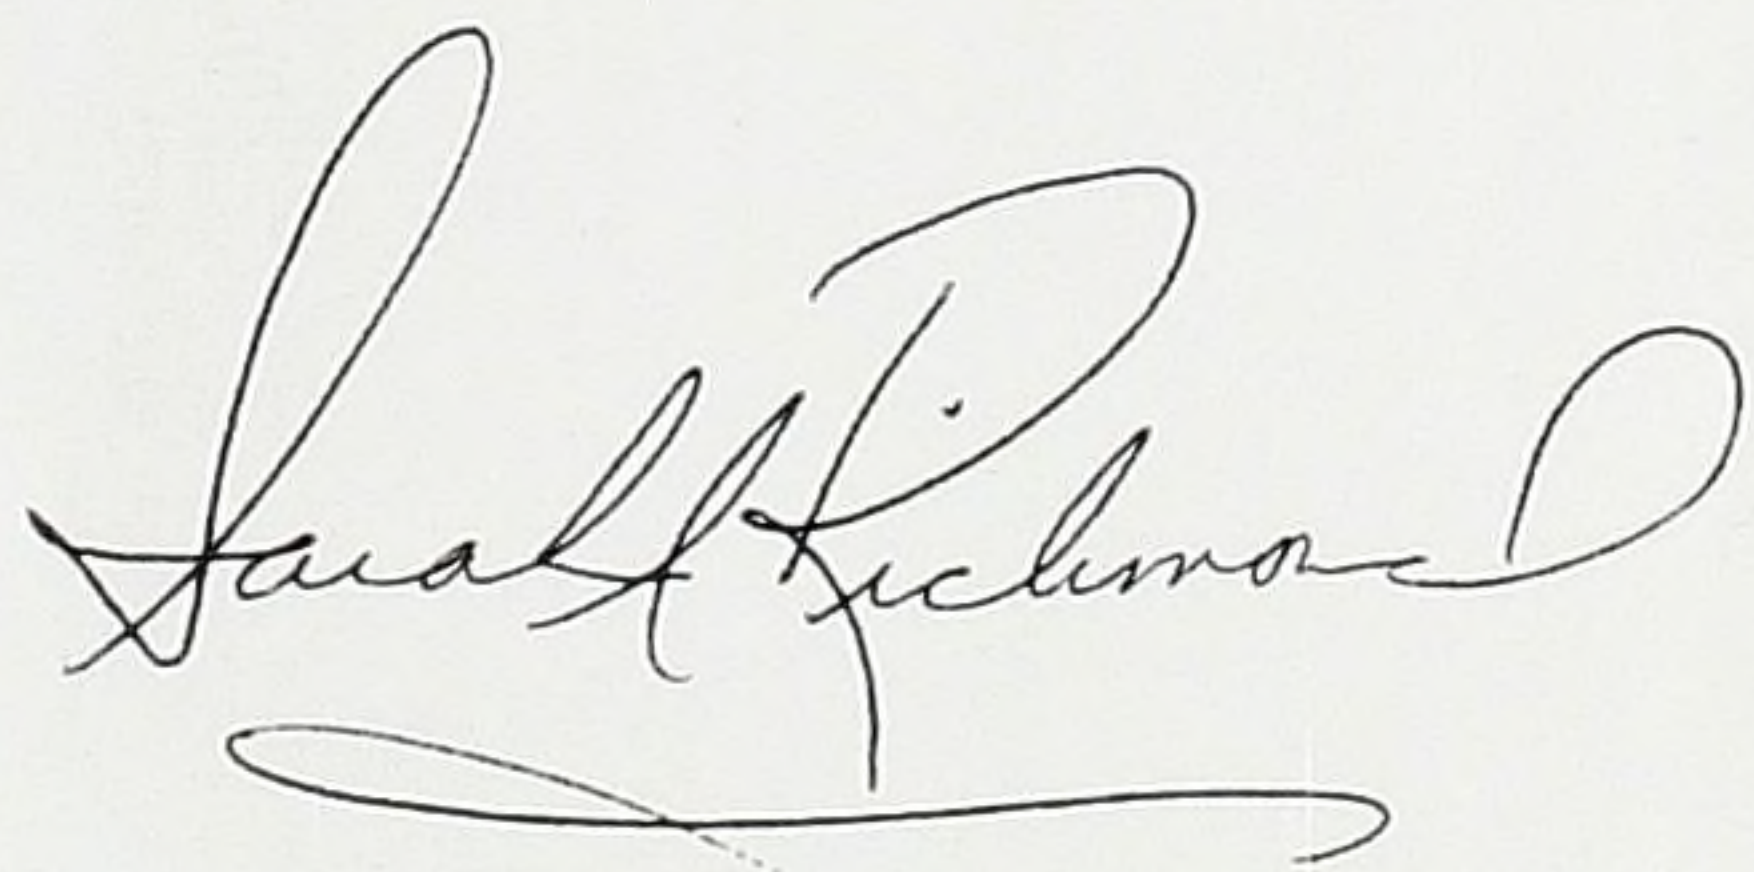

It's that time again. Echo time!

Coming into this project we, the editorial staff, were initially overcome with idealistic tendencies. The kind that made us think we could change the face of college yearbooks forever. Needless to say, reality soon altered those ideals. There are budgets to follow and technical restrictions, that to the creative mind, are the root of all evil. And so, what you see is what you get. We tried. Hard. And we had lots of fun in doing so. The moral of the story? We've learned no one can please all of the people all of the time, and well, sometimes you just can't please any of the people any of the time. And we can deal with that.

We have made changes, however, changes we hope you like. Our goal was simple: provide a yearbook students would actually want to read, therefore saving hundreds of copies from the recycling bin. This year we will be releasing two larger issues of the Echo. In doing this, we are able to give you more color pages, as well as more pictures. We have also changed the format of the Echo. Hopefully, the new magazine type style will make it easier and more enjoyable for your reading pleasure.

So enjoy! We hope the Echo will bring you hours of fun-filled viewing for years to come. . . or something like that. For now, we are headed off for a long and well deserved nap. Thanx!

Editorially Yours,

College life:

Finances

6.5 million college students (nearly half of the nation's college enrollment) have student loans. Borrowing has reached a record level of $23.8 billion.

64% of college students have a credit card.

Since 1990 student borrowing has increased an average of 22% each year.

Many students by the time they are ready for a steady job and marriage, have thousands of dollars of debt from the misuse of credit cards.

Jobs

Over 90% of college students who take specific, job-related courses, find work.

52% of students attend college to learn new job skills.

22% of college students aim to improve their existing skills.

20% of students enrolled in college to decide on a career.

The main reason former students chose SAC was to gain a Christian perspective.

92% of SAC seniors surveyed last year stated they have a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.

They're here...

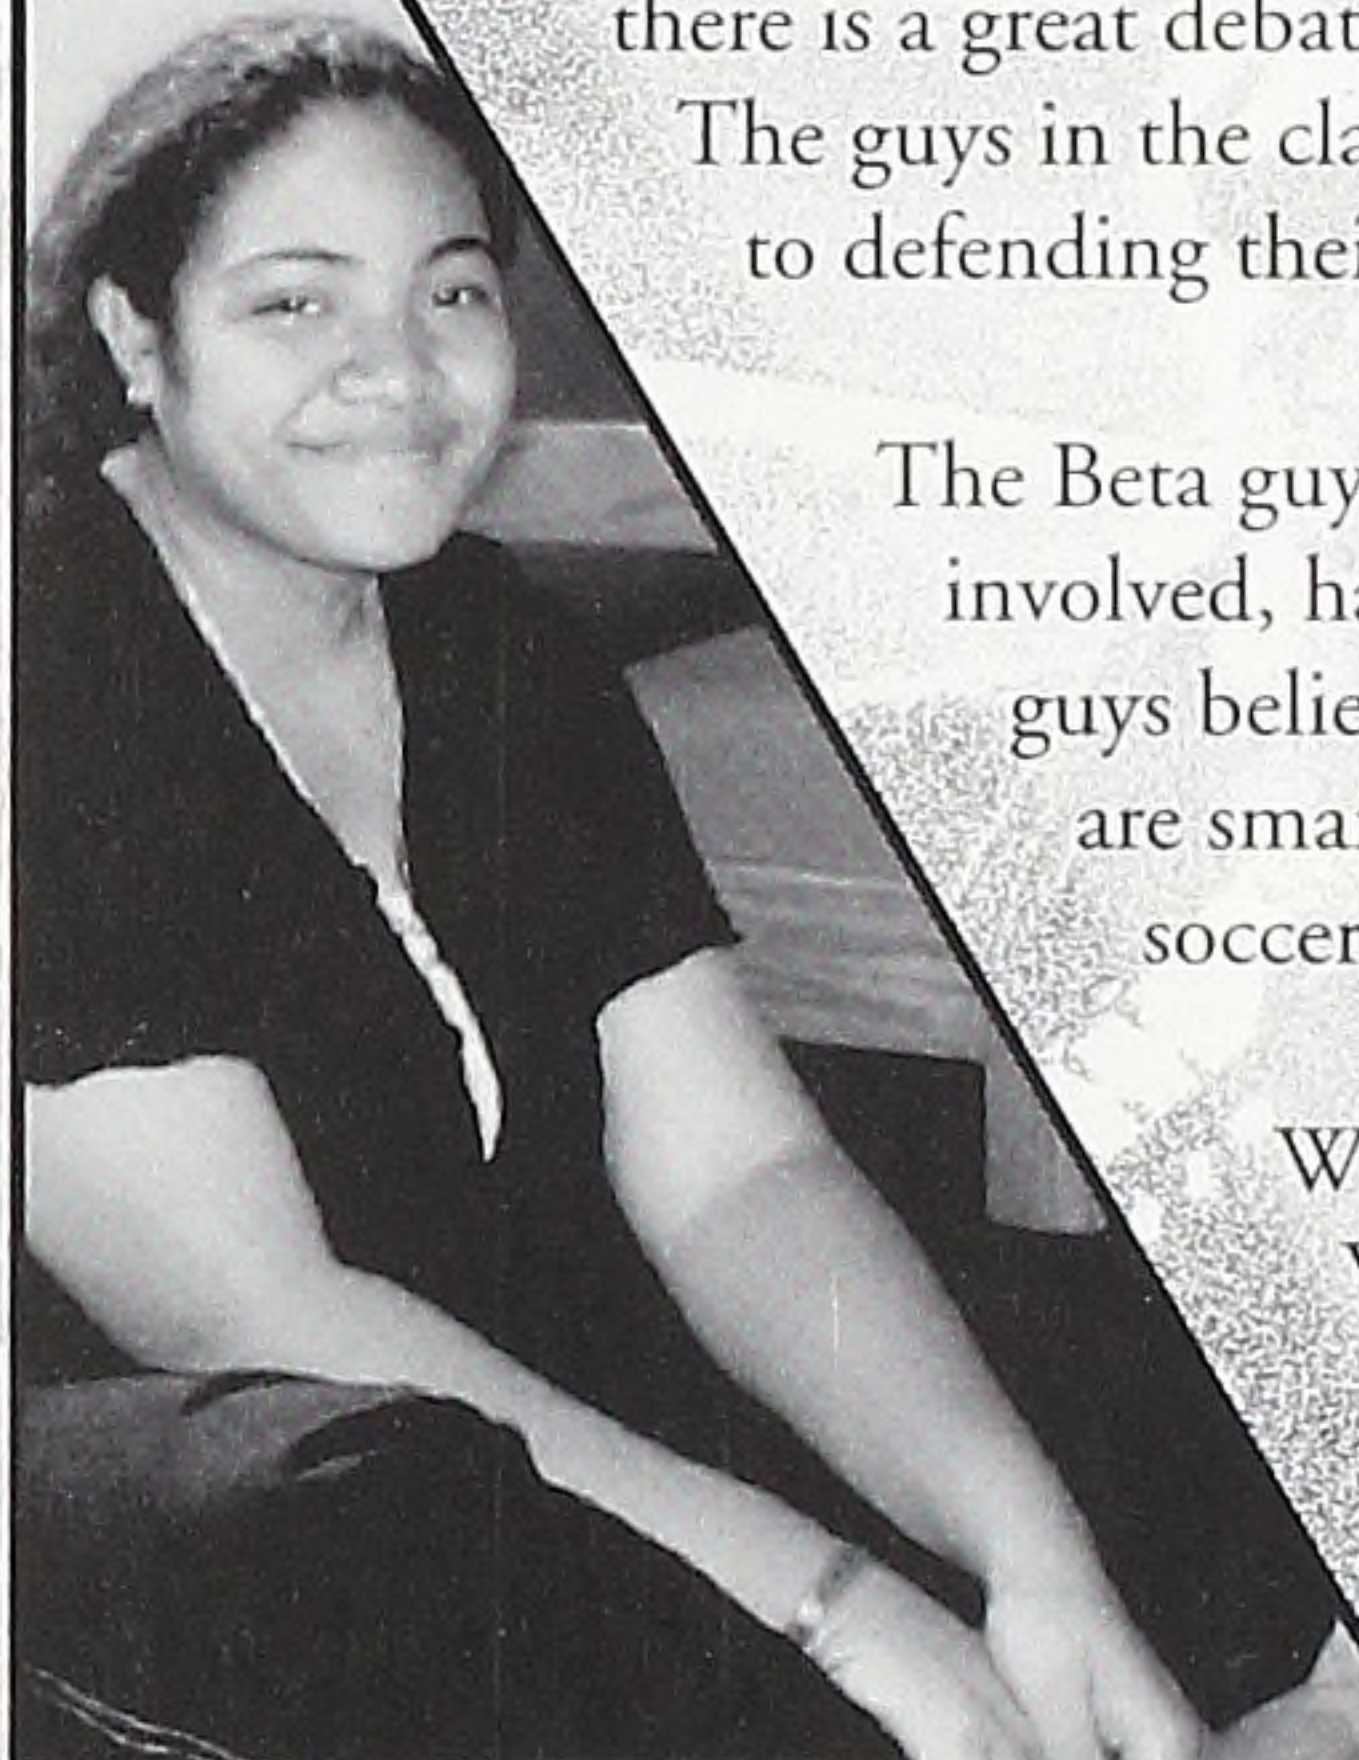

Beta vs. Ormston

By Christina Corson

Listening to various guys around campus you may have noticed there is a great debate over which hall is better, Beta or Ormston. The guys in the class of 2002 are no exception when it comes to defending their floor.

The Beta guys argue Beta is better because: They are more involved, have more fun, and get more girls. Ormston guys believe living in Ormston is better because: They are smarter, more laid back, and they beat Beta 2 in soccer (compliments of O1).

When will this great question be answered? Who knows, but maybe in another 125 years we can finally come to the understanding that all Spring Arbor guys are great, no matter what dorm they live in.

Ode to Muffitt 3

By Christina Corson

With 26 out of 28 people being freshmen, Muffitt 3 has a new look this semester. Learning to adjust to the new living situation might be hard for some, but Muffitt 3 RA, Misty Jones, has only good things to say about the new girls on the block. "The girls on my floor have such great attitudes. I believe that they are one big encouragement to each other. Even though the shower lines are long, they take the opportunity to get to know each other a little better." With so much love flying around, are they really any problems up there? Just one: "Can we get an elevator up here?"

Microbytes

— Shirley Smith

Shirley is earning a double major in psychology and communications writing. She commutes from Osseo, where she resides with her husband, Gene and children Susie and James. Shirley has two sons, Ben and Mike, who are traditional SAC students. On her farm are a variety of animals: dogs, cats, goats, a dwarf bunny, an iguana and a pet rat. When she isn't in school, Shirley works for the Hillsdale Board of Realtors, and has been a reporter for the Hillsdale paper. Shirley has also had articles published in magazines and is currently involved in writing and editing several SAC publications. One of her observations on being a non-trad is: "It's strange being as old or older than my professors. I've lived history most students don't know much about, like the War in Vietnam."

Microbytes

— Julie Duncan

Before Julie enrolled in SAC's School of Education, she home schooled her two children (Evan, 10 and Morgan, 8) for six years. Prior to that she and her husband were missionaries in Ecuador from 1992-1994. As a college student, Julie studied and did outreach work in Peru.

This is the first year Julie is enrolled full-time at SAC. She commutes from Hillsdale, where she and her husband are house parents for 16 displaced teenagers. "I've never felt out of place as a non-traditional student at SAC, because there have always been several other non-trads in my classes, especially the night classes."

Microbytes

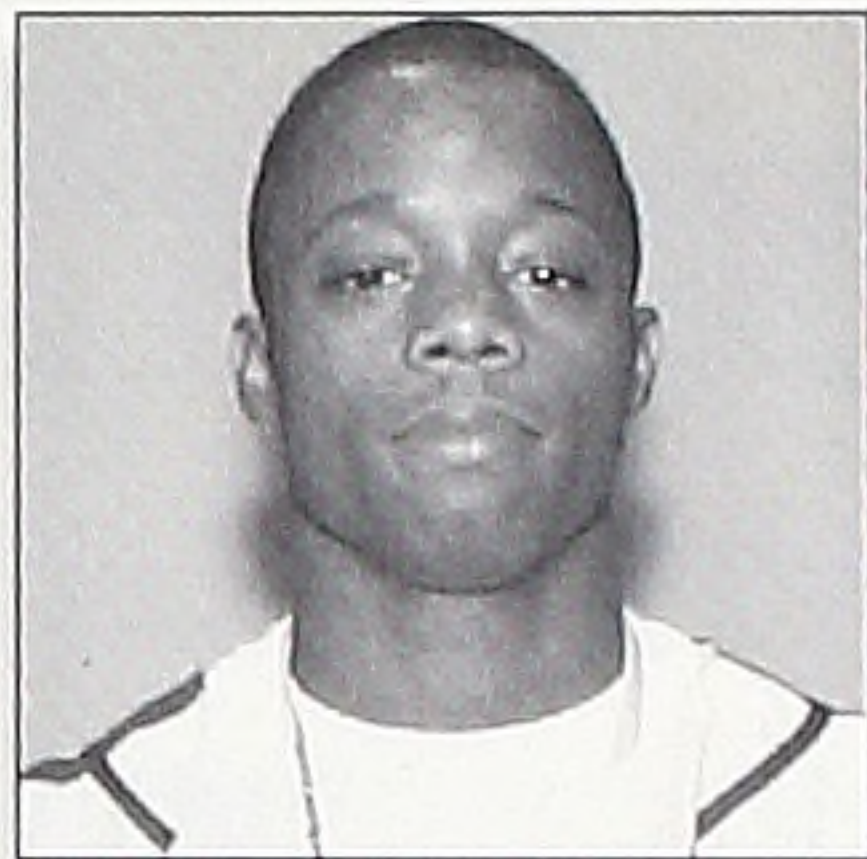

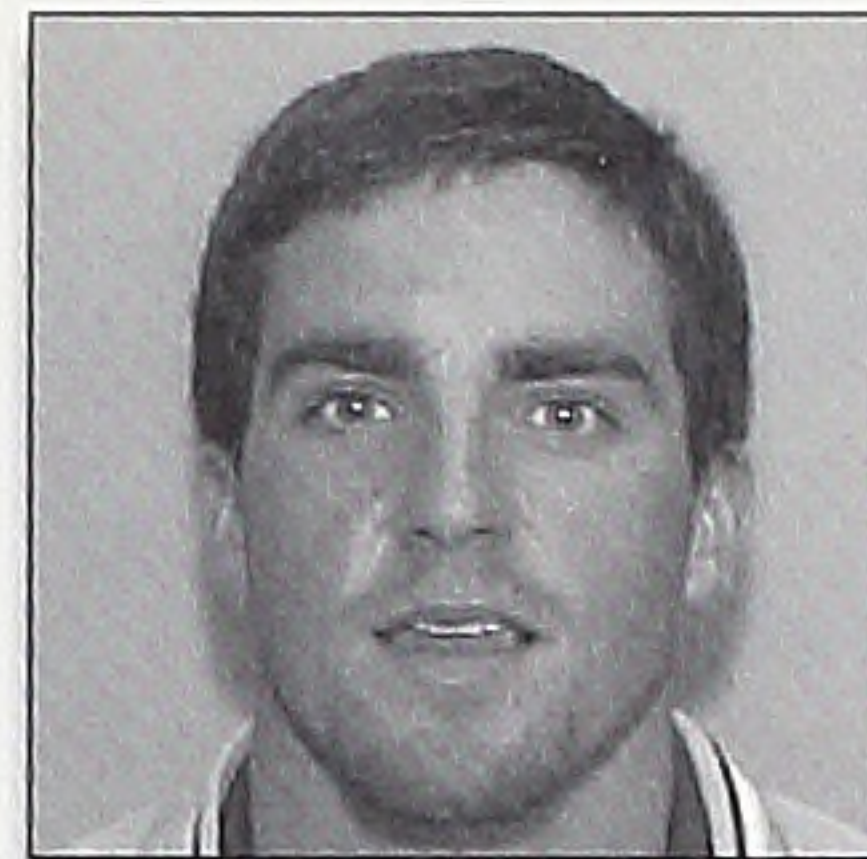

— Kevin Baker

After twenty years in private law practice, attorney Kevin Baker is switching gears. He's a SAC Education major specializing in secondary ed. Over the years he has taught classes on law at Jackson Community College and Lansing Community College. Kevin has a teenage son, Charlie.

Kevin, a commuter from Clark Lake, has many interests. He knows three languages: fluent in German, conversational in Spanish, and tourist acceptable in French. He receives the German edition of Reader's Digest every month. Kevin races his 17.5 foot Rebel sailboat every weekend during the summer. And he played the part of Steven T. Mason, Michigan's first governor, in historical reenactments of debates with Governor Lucas of Ohio, during Michigan's 150th celebration at the Lansing Museum in 1987.

"Teachers are some of the best golfers I know because they have summers off. We'll see."

Do You Know What We Did Last Summer?

Barb Parks and Jamie Feeley were just a couple of SAC students who took time out for great music, fattening foods, and JPUSA styled fun, at the annual Cornerstone Festival in Bushnell, IL.

Robb Selfe spent the summer in Kenya studying medicine while gaining "hands-on" experience at health clinics. He administered vaccines, witnessed surgeries, and helped weigh babies.

Roni Smith, public relations extraordinaire, interned for the Rochester, NY chapter of the Red Cross.

The members of SAC's Wellspring ministry team spent time touring summer camps and churches in the United States and Canada

Intern Sarah Richmond with Steve Taylor and Squint Entertainment staff in Nashville, TN

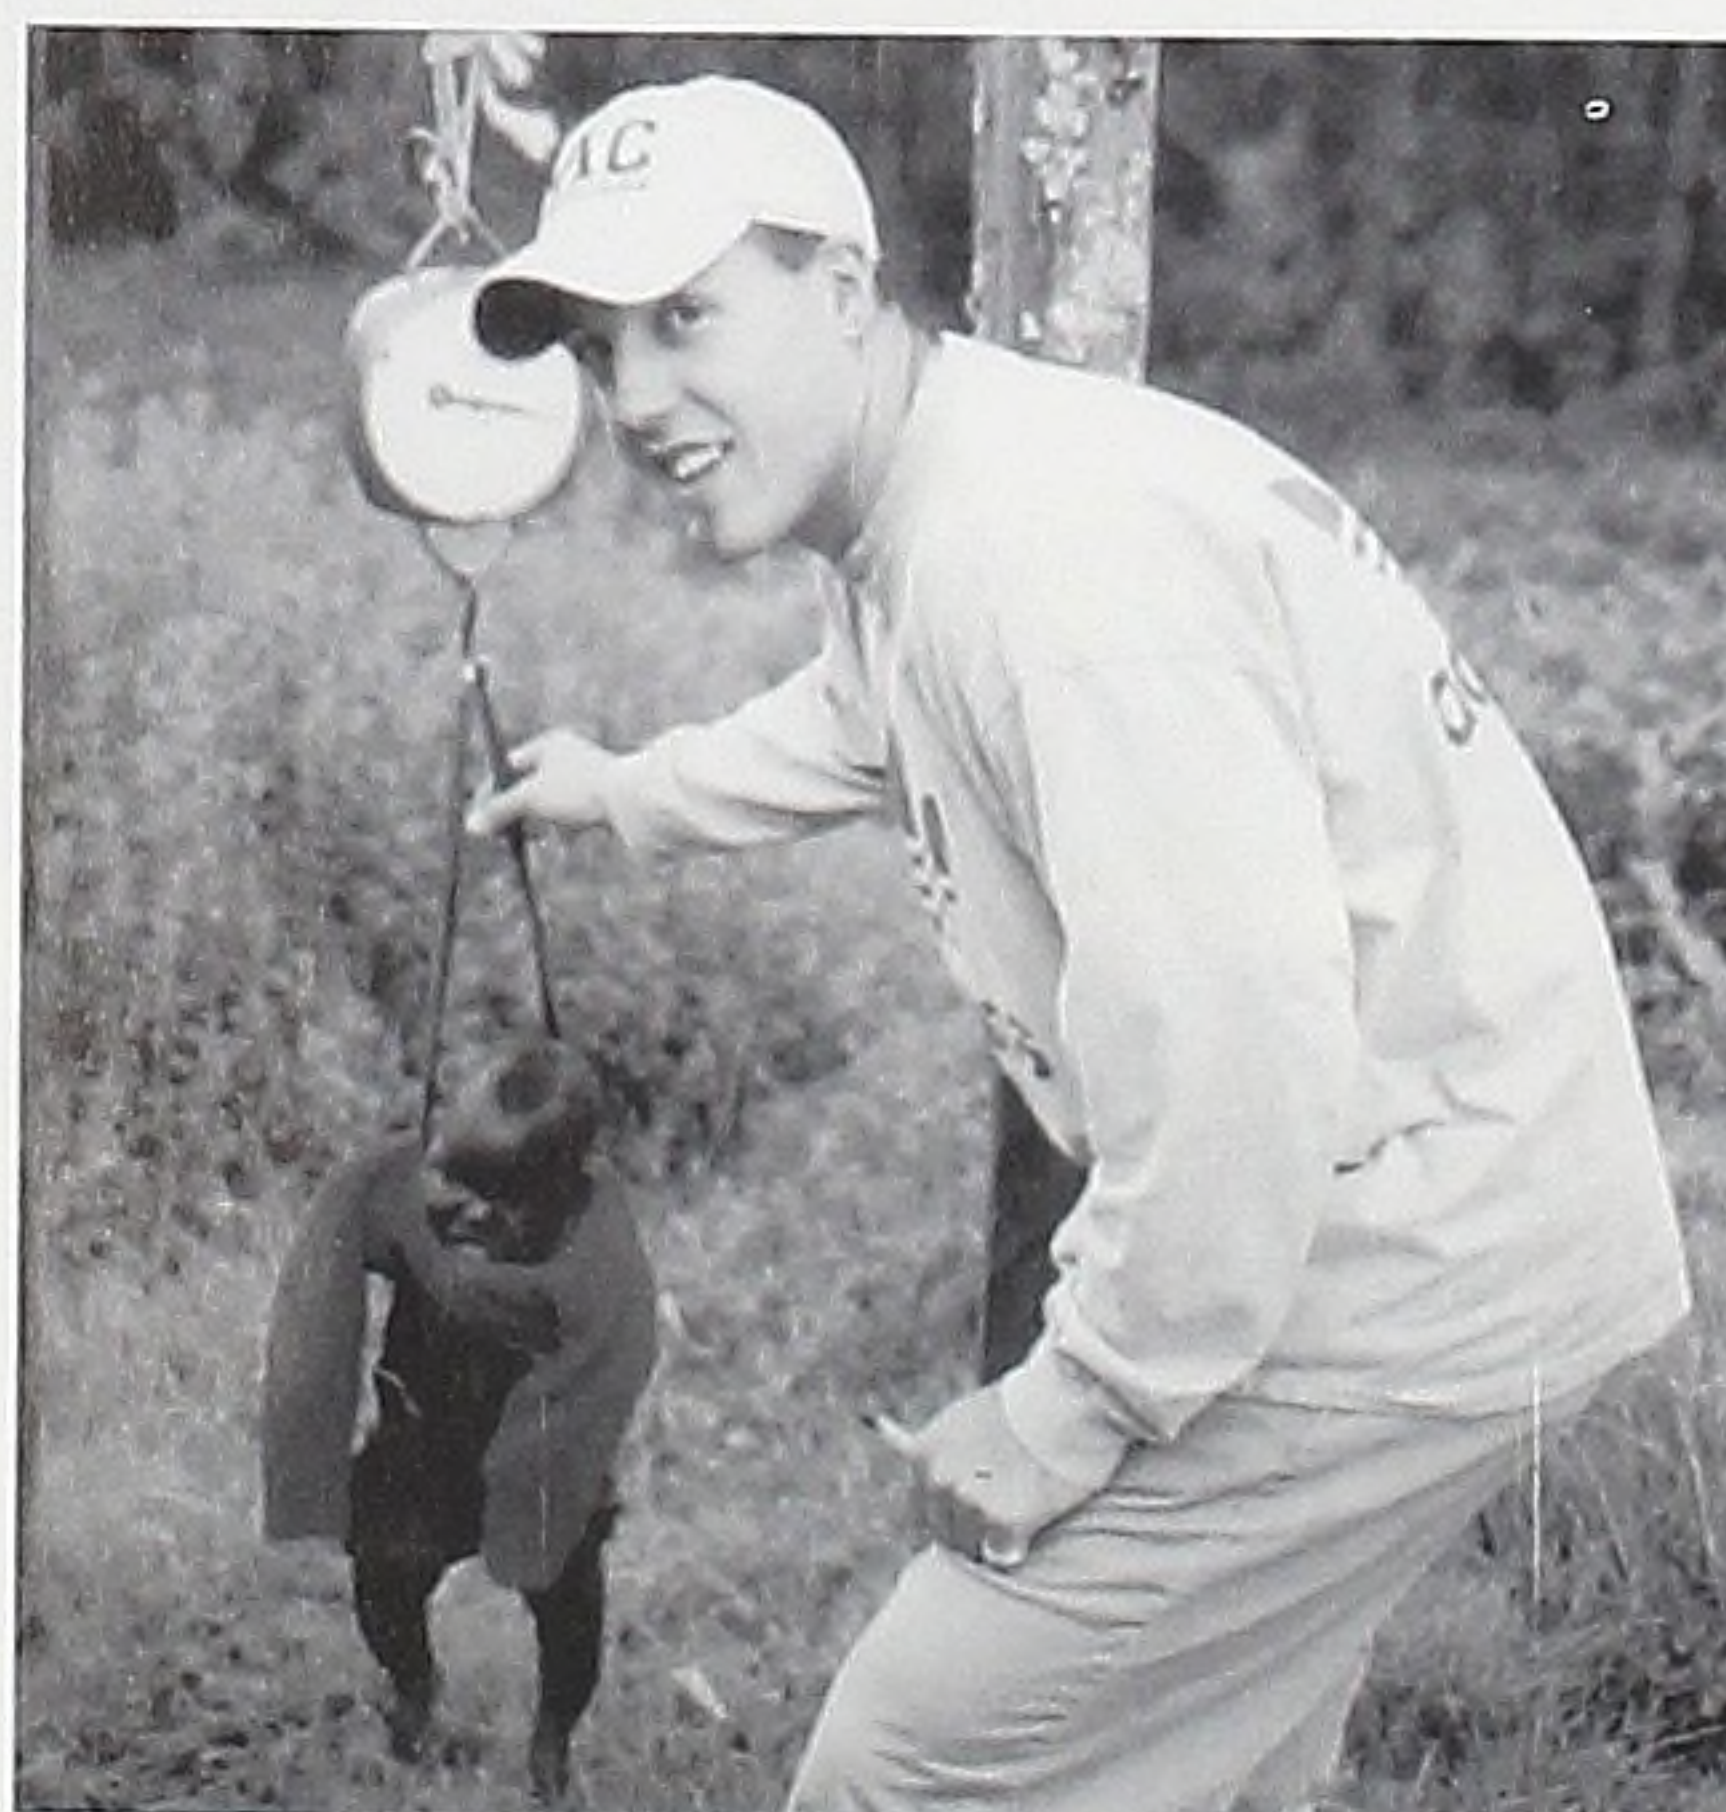

Sara Nelson had an internship with the Jackson County police department. She is currently developing public relations strategies for the force, as well as getting out of any speeding tickets.

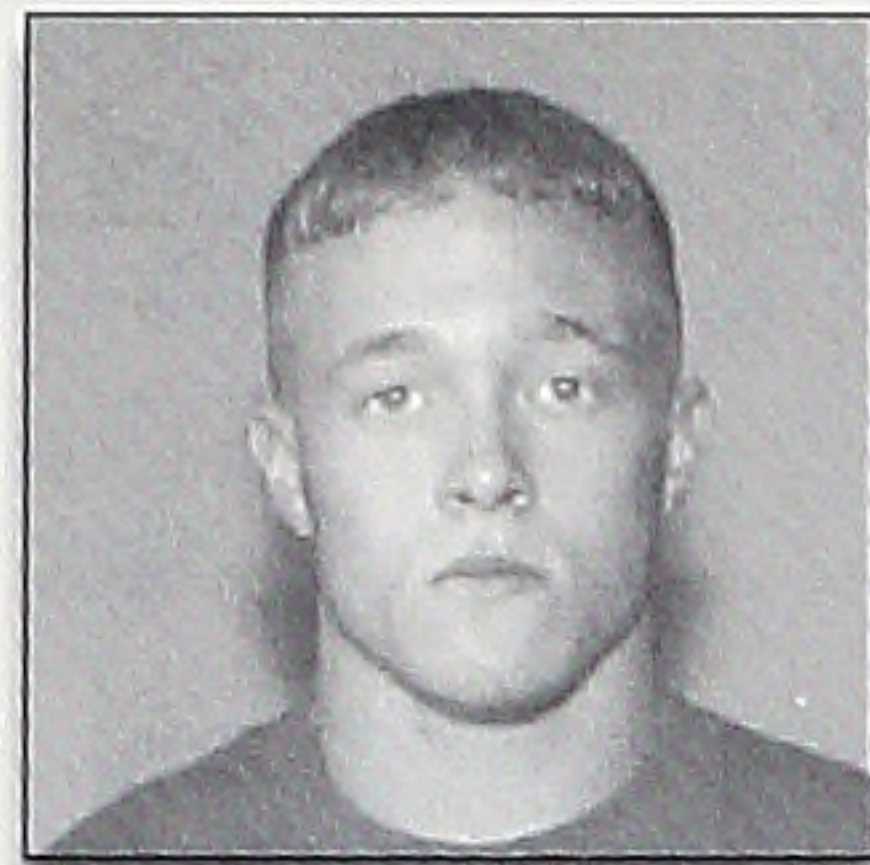

Erik Barber won over the masses in Nashville where he interned for a national radio promoter at Word Records.

Jennie Schuneman was a camp counselor at Special Days Camp, a camp for kids with cancer.

AC Coleman worked as a sound engineer, where he schmoozed with the likes of Bonnie Raitt and Bill Cosby all summer

1 out of 4
college age women suffer from an eating disorder.

Many students
use food to deal with emotions.

About one-third of eating disorders are treatable.

About 15%
of untreated anorexics die as a result.

College life:

Alcohol

41% of college students in the U.S. engage in heavy drinking (five or more drinks in a row) every two weeks.

Typical college students consume an average of over 34 gallons of alcohol a year.

Throughout colleges and universities in the U.S. some statistics say that 85% - 95% of all college students consume alcohol routinely.

A survey of 37 institutions of higher education showed that students who drink an average of 11 drinks per week, carry an average GPA of a D or F.

Source: www.geocities.com/CollegePark and www.indiana.edu

13% of 18-25- year olds have used illegal drugs in the past month.

Beer brewers spend between $15-$20- million on advertising geared toward college students yearly.

College students spend $5.5 billion on alcohol yearly.

360,000 students in the U.S. will die during their four year tenure at school because of situations connected to alcohol. That is more than the total number of students who receive MA's and Ph.D's in the same time frame.
