With Deepest Gratitude

The 1962-63 "Echo" staff dedicates, with deepest gratitude, the 1963 "Echo" to Miss Edna Fuller.

Since coming to Spring Arbor College, nine years ago, Miss Fuller's life has been a constant source of inspiration to those with whom she has had association.

Her consistent life of true humility has won numberless friendships, lightened many sad hearts, and earned the respect of all.

To you, Miss Fuller, we say a sincere "Thank you" for all you have done for us, the community and for Spring Arbor College.

Her countenance radiates an inner peace.

Before-School Fellowship

Spring Arbor College's Fifth Student Leader's Conference was held at the beginning of September this year at Wampler's Lake. Approximately thirty new and returning Spring Arbor students met together to discuss and plan ways of making this year a fruitful one. Some members of the faculty and administration were present to participate in the discussion and planning. Many good times were shared and friendships formed; but its greatest value was that, early in the year, it provided capable students for positions of responsibility and encouraged them to make leadership an important part of their education.

College Retreat

Yankee Springs was the setting for the annual All-College Retreat. Students and faculty members packed their luggage, their bedding, and themselves into the school bus and many automobiles. Schoolwork was almost completely forgotten as everyone enjoyed the recreation and scenery. A slide series on wild-life and nature was the entertainment for the night that was spent there and some of the college talent was spotlighted. Getting to know each other, both students and faculty were aware of close Christian fellowship, the most important part of retreat.

Retreat was enjoyed on the Chief Noonday Group Camp grounds. The scenery was beautiful, the food delicious, and the fun fast and furious.

Volleyball games were played all day with different teams competing against each other.

Guys and gals alike turned out to be avid fans of touch football.

Climbing up out of the Devil's Soup Bowl turned out to be quite a bit harder than falling down into the deep gully.

Bill Crothers and Bob Kreger are welcomed by Dave Cain on their first day on campus. Bob, in the center, appears to have an extra pair of hands; handy for carrying all that luggage!

Doug Smith gives Beth Clune her first glimpse of the 1962 Echo. Ann Galbreath sits at the typewriter ready to register Beth.

The College-Community Reception held in the U was a time of introduction and handshaking. Many persons from the community, the faculty, and most of the sophomores made up a long reception line through which weary freshmen toiled.

The First Days of School

The first days of school were busy but exciting for freshmen and sophomores. Freshmen made new friends, met their teachers, and took what seemed like scores of orientation tests. Sophomores renewed friendships, recalled fond memories of last year, and helped freshmen find their way around.

Freshmen and Sophomores registered on the steps of the Administration Building.

After the introductions and handshakings were over, the audience split into two groups for antiphonal singing. The faculty and community people congregated (see picture, below) on the steps of Ormston Hall, and the freshmen and sophomores gathered on Muffitt Hall's steps.

Dean Harold Darling advises Harold Klassen on his proposed schedule at registration for classes while Mr. Eric Johnson counsels another student.

Busily filling out their long blue forms, students are seen here in the school gymnasium as they register for courses for this year.

Dave Collver leads singing at the Mix-and-Match festivities held in the gym. This get-acquainted game night featured much of the college talent and lots of good fun.

Spring Arbor's Board of Trustees, composed largely of professional and businessmen, sets general policy for the college. The president of the college is ex-officio member of the Board and the Executive and Advisory Committees. Along with the administration and faculty, the board members have reviewed the possibilities and responsibilities of the college for the years ahead and have moved confidently toward the expansion of Spring Arbor into a four-year liberal arts program. The modern, two-billion dollar, debt-free campus of this college is a monument to the sacrificial investment of faculty, trustees, and friends. The Board of Trustees through its emphasis upon high academic goals and sound campus planning will provide at Spring Arbor a welcoming atmosphere in which students and faculty may develop together in a community of Christian scholars.

President's Message

An eminent historian has said, "Beware of an idea whose time has come." Evidently his intense study of world history had revealed the fact that momentous events turned upon ideas. Christianity, the Reformation, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment and even Communism would illustrate the dramatic historical force of some of these timely ideas.

As a follow-up to this thought, another scholar has written, "If you see a movement coming, lead it". He is saying that a timely idea needs timely leadership. This is quite in contrast with the general in the French Revolution who strapped on his sword and headed for the door saying, "The mob has just gone past. I must hurry and follow them for I am their leader". While the idea may have been good, his leadership was too little and too late.

American higher education is in need of a timely idea and timely leadership. This is particularly true of Christian higher education. Frequently colleges are built upon ambiguous idea or upon conflicting ideas. These are the institutions that spend their time trying to catch up with educational ideas that have already gone past them. Spring Arbor College, however, has the distinction of an idea whose time has come and the opportunity to give timely leadership in a moment of crisis for the Christian college.

In your memories, 1962-63 can be noted as the Year of the Idea because it was during this time that the college "logo" was officially introduced and became the symbol of The Spring Arbor Concept. This was also the year that the college took leadership action. A new sense of involvement in the life of learning was introduced into the Curriculum. A deepened sense of commitment to Jesus Christ was established on the campus. A new organization for participation was developed in the form of government.

Because Spring Arbor has a timely idea for the Christian college which is needed in a time of need, your college has emerged as one of the most exciting institutions in Christian higher education. The Echo for 1962-63 tells the story and reminds us that the idea of the "logo" will remain a meaningless abstraction unless it is embodied in the persons we call Trustees, Administration, Faculty, Students.

In Memoriam--Henry Ryckman

It was a real shock for the college and the community to learn of the serious injury of Mr. Henry Ryckman in his home on November 3, 1962 and his subsequent home-going on November 6, 1962.

Henry brought his family to Spring Arbor in the fall of 1948 in answer to President Gregory's request for instructional help in the high school departments of industrial arts and music. Though his main area of instruction was industrial arts, he did assist as needed in mathematics and social studies and gave some help in special maintenance problems.

When the high school program, including industrial arts, was terminated in June of 1961, Mr. Ryckman elected to continue with the College in maintenance work, thus keeping his family in the influence of the Spring Arbor community, church, and college, rather than moving elsewhere to teach industrial arts. His continued faithful service to the college until his home-going was greatly appreciated. As he enjoys a much deserved rest, it is hoped that many more will assume his mantle of effective faithful service.

For many years the Student Government has provided leadership in the areas of religious, social, academic and athletic life. This year has been no exception. Steps have been made to gain a clear picture of the Spring Arbor concept. Future years will tell the story of the foundation of the thought given to the building of the Spring Arbor image of which we may all be proud.

Campus Council

Spring Arbor's Campus Council is yet another indication of progress in the school. This form of student government was introduced this year following an affirmative vote by the student body. The Council had been proposed by Dr. McKenna and the rest of the faculty and administration. In this form of government, students and faculty pool their efforts and discuss mutual problems. Thus far, the Campus Council has proved effective for a situation such as ours.

The editor-in-chief of the ECHO, Ray Koerner, appears pleased with the progress of his staff.

Under the guidance of Ray and Joyce and with the aid of Mr. Whiteman, the editors of this year's yearbook attempted to provide an attractive annual for the students of Spring Arbor, for faculty and administration, for alumni, and for friends. It is the hope of each of the staff members that this yearbook will bring many hours of enjoyment to its readers and that many happy memories will be recalled by reading it in the years to come.

Paper Concludes Nineteenth Year

In 1943, Mrs. Florence Gilroy Mannoia, feeling that the students of Spring Arbor needed the enlightenment, entertainment, and challenge presented by a student newspaper, instituted a mimeographed publication which she entitled the Re-Dit. As with any new organization, the early Re-Dit staff faced a multitude of problems; but Mrs. Mannoia and staff persevered and as a result the paper improved and grew.

From that day, through the efforts of paper staffs following true to the spirit and belief of the first staff, the paper has continued to improve and grow; and this year has been no exception.

The tremendous advancement which the paper has made throughout the 1961-62 academic year has been highlighted by two recent events.

The first of these two events was a change in the name of the paper from the old name Re-Dit to the new name The Spring Arbor College Crusader. The name change which had been a controversial issue for several months became effective upon the ratification on May 11th of an amendment to the Student Association Constitution. The name change had been approved on several preliminary ballots but could not become effective until the May 11th ratification.

The second featured event in connection with the paper was the get at S. A. Just this year they have moved up from fifth place to third in the nation in giving to private junior colleges. Alumni may well be proud of their efforts.

In the Decade of Development program, alumni are viewed as speaker at Spring Arbor's 89th commencement, in which President McKenna and Dr. Darling will be conferring diplomas to 54 graduates. Alpha Kappa Sigma awards for outstanding scholarship, character, and leadership will be presented to Howard Seeburger, valedictorian, Beth Gallup, salutatorian, Les Dietzman, Barbara Roessink, Norma Kelley, Carolyn Lietzke, and Les Walter. An ensemble of graduates and the Ambassador male quartet will provide the entertainment. Leading the academic procession will be the marshal, Doug Smith, the color bearer, Sheryl Johnson, and the standard bearer, Harold Klassen.

Dr. Rees holds a Doctorate of Divinity from the University of Southern California, a Doctor of Letters degree from Houghton College, and a Doctor of Humane Letters degree from Seattle Pacific College. The topic for his commencement address will be "The Christian Mission in Contemporary Focus."

Paul N. Ellis, pastor of the Morris Street Free Methodist Church in Indianapolis, Ind., and a member of the board of Greenville College will be bringing the message, "Never live by faith alone." The A Cappella choir will be singing during this service.

A reception will be given at 6:30 p.m. in honor of the graduates and a A Cappella vesper service in the "U" will follow at 6:30 p.m. Parents and friends are invited to attend these Sunday events in honor of the graduating sophomores.

COMMITMENT

Our Church Family

The Free Methodist Church in Spring Arbor has long been a source of inspiration and spiritual guidance for the students of the college. The new pastor of the Free Methodist Church and his family come to Spring Arbor from Beaver Dam, Wisconsin, where Rev. Sebree was Superintendent of the Wisconsin Conference.

"To belong to the ever-growing Spring Arbor family is a blessed privilege! To this family belong the members of a warm-hearted church, a dedicated faculty and an energetic student body. Together we share our joys, our tears, our cares, our prayers, our aspirations, our inspirations and our hard work. Together we are experiencing the strength in teamwork; together we are knowing better our Lord. Greetings to the Spring Arbor Family everywhere! Congratulations to those who have joined us so recently! Invitations to those who are looking for a Liberal Arts education centered in Christ. The Spring Arbor Family is united in heart, in mind and in hand for the noble task of providing "quality education -- thoroughly Christian" enhanced by enduring friendships and enriched fellowship with our living Lord.

Missionary Convocation

"Call for Reapers" was the theme of our missionary Convocation. This spiritual emphasis became possible only through the efforts of the Community Church and College F. M. F. The purpose of the missionary convocation was for a renewed consecration and dedication of hearts. This purpose was achieved when many went forward to give their lives over to Christ and His calling.

The Spring Arbor cheerleaders demonstrate their dexterity by performing a difficult pyramid.

JoLynn Holton, our mascot, is an added incentive for our boys to do their best.

JoLynn seems worn out after a particularly rousing cheer.

With determination and drive, our cheerleaders have supported our team this past year. Through victory and defeat, they have been examples of our school spirit.

Reserve cheerleaders: Sharlotte Tomascello, Carol Tapp, and Beth Clune.

Playing a hard and fast in true "Blue Jay" fashion, "domination" has been the key word in varsity athletics this year.

Spring Arbor has known victory this year. She has also tasted defeat. Whatever the outcome of any contest, our men have proven themselves to be true sportsmen.
