What the College Offers

To be at home in all lands and all ages; to count nature a familiar acquaintance and art an intimate friend; to gain a standard for the appreciation of other men's work, and the criticism of your own; to carry the keys of the world's library in your pocket, and feel its resources behind you in whatever task you undertake; to make hosts of friends among men and women of your own age who are to be leaders in all walks of life; to lose yourself in generous enthusiasm, and co-operation with others for common ends; to learn manners from students who are gentlemen and gentlewomen, and form character under professors who are Christians;—this is the offer of the college for four of the best years of your life.

Faculty Briefs

Prof. Updyke:

"We do not have intellect, feeling, will, AND religion. Religion is the integrating element, the unifying factor of human life. In fact, religion is life at its highest and best."

Mrs. Updyke:

"Do you want friends? Make acquaintance with David Copperfield, Maggie Tulliver, Joan of Arc, Leather Stocking, Jean Valjean, and countless others who live in literature. You may have for your companions the noblest, the bravest, the truest, the most human who have ever lived in reality or in inspired imagination."

Prof. Townes:

"Today our responsibility to God and to our fellow-man is greater than in the ages of the past. This is due in part to that branch of the curriculum called history. Our understanding of the moral law; our appreciation of the great institutions such as the home, the church, and the ideals of democracy are all enhanced by the illuminations from the pages of history."

Miss Matthewson:

"A true story of classic literature greatly increases a person's enjoyment of life. Literature opens treasuries of thought and knowledge which many know nothing about. It is literature which gives one the true appreciation of nature. It is literature which teaches one about humanity, with its need for love and sympathy. It is literature which holds up to us the highest ideals of life. And it is through literature that spiritual truths are given a new significance."

Prof. Aylard:

"We owe a great deal to the pioneers of science, many of whom have sacrificed to an extent we do not readily appreciate. In spite of such efforts, someone has indicated that the majority of people of this globe, believe the world to be flat. Some people in these United States believe in such signs as planting in the light of the moon. There is need for much educational work."

Miss Kiffer:

"It is a great privilege to have the opportunity of closely observing the unfolding and development of childhood into its blossoming of knowledge. One can gain many lasting lessons from the attitude of a child. There one finds pure faith, strong love, true humor, and keen perception of truth, all of which helps to give one a balanced perspective of life."

Prof. Lowell:

"We live in a universe of beauty and percision. The secret of its harmony is the Christ at its center. Human lives will also become beautiful and useful when they are hid with Christ in God. True harmony of living is found only in the Christ-centered life."

Mrs. Lowell:

"Like music, life has its major and minor strains. When the chords of life seem too full of the sad and the somber, then remember it is against the wierd beauty of the minors that the majors take on their brightness. When God's plan is realized, life's music is sweetest."

Mrs. LaDue:

"Would you direct the child's thinking? —Think with him, live in his realm, look at life thru his eyes, listen to the sounds of earth thru his ears—in short, become a child! At the same time you must not lose the adult's poise, the adult's outlook. Paradoxical? Very well, you must be a paradox."

Prof. LaDue:

"When asked what he was reading about, Hamlet replied, 'Words-words-words;' but what meaning lurks behind that mock-madman's utterance! Words are symbols of ideas; ideas are the expression of the souls of men. What a fascinating task; searching the souls of men thru their written words."

Mrs. Brown:

"True worth is in being—not seeming.' The make believe is prevalent everywhere, but wholesome, pure, and earnest Christian character is the goal of our teaching. Whatever the subject handled, the teacher should mould the clay with the eye on the Master sculptor that there may be a likeness to His image."

Prof. Glover:

"The old name Natural Science or the study of nature has given way to Biology—the science of life. Under either term the faithful study of the living teaches how to live. But to study Nature's garden without honoring the Gardener is like reading an authorless book. The early naturalists dedicated their life work to the Author of Life. May God speed the day when the modern biologist returns to the study of life in all its ramifications as to the Glory of God instead of dedicating years of toil to blind chance and relentless destiny."

Prof. Banks:

"Sufficient athletics to refresh the mind and keep the body in strength, as an aid to the mind and soul, is to be chosen rather than the type which develops the body to its capacity at the expense of mental and spiritual growth."

Mrs. Banks:

"Teach children right habits in early childhood, and their future life is safe."

Miss Stone:

"A Christian education coupled with a thorough training in business is a challenging combination with which to meet the world in any chosen profession."

Christian Education at Spring Arbor Seminary and Junior College

The program of Christian Education is not one which is merely adding to the current scholastic curriculum a course in Bible study and instruction in a set of moral standards which have been set by church creeds. Its more direct concern is that all truth, in whatever field it may be found, shall become a part of the individual student's thought and life concept. This attitude toward truth makes the truth permeate every principle which motivates the student's life. Such incarnation of truth into life's activities can only be made through constant association with those who have experienced such incarnation. Christian teachers are the only ones who can make education Christian.

Spring Arbor Seminary and Junior College has been favored by Providence in having teachers who in a most marked degree have searched for truth in nature and welcome it and who also are equally, yea, more concerned that the truth in the spiritual world shall be known and heeded. Such an attitude is a mark of scholarship. One will look long and far before finding a nobler, more conscientious and more consecrated group of men and women than those who are maintaining here the high spiritual and scholastic standard.

As evidence that this type of work is valued by parents and by students, attention should be called to the very substantial increase in the registration. Although there has been a decrease of twenty-five per cent in the number in the first eight grades, yet so large a gain has been made in the Academic and College Departments that together with the special students in the Music School the total registration is nearly three hundred. Can anyone doubt then that parents are feeling more and more the need of an education for their children which is complete because truth is cherished in every place it may be found?

In order that the work of the men and women who make Christian Education possible may be done suitably and efficiently the building program which has been outlined in the minds of our officers for two years has been launched. The announcement that the new Auditorium-Gymnasium is completed, except for some inside additions which are to be delayed until next winter, will no doubt bring great joy to the heart of everyone who is anxious to see the facilities for giving our boys and girls a Christian Education more in keeping with accepted standards and more adequate. The blessing of the Lord has been asked for in the guidance of the use of the building and the answer to the petition has already been realized in unexpected measure.

The completion of the remaining units of the new Administration Building, a new Ladies' Hall and the reconditioning of the present Administration Building into a Men's Hall are greatly needed. The work of the Free Methodist Church will never be rightly represented before many who might be interested in Holiness until these improvements can be realized.

Again we would ask that you, Alumni, former students and friends, cooperate by giving as God has prospered you and that you pray that the work may not languish because of lack of cooperation. There are many encouraging signs that all that is planned can be realized if we cooperate.

—Merlin G. Smith.

COLLEGE SOPHOMORE REPORT

The college sophomore activities for the year have been rather limited in number, but not in fun.

The first activity of the year was a reception given in honor of the college freshmen. Gravel piles, boxes, keys, and mysterious notes gave them their directions, and dusk found a light-hearted group arriving at the home of Ora Sprague. Games were played and a taffy pull was enjoyed later in the evening. The freshmen were given green caps, while the sophomores wore maroon colored caps. The evening was concluded with prayer by Prof. Townes and the college freshmen and sophomores began the homeward walk.

On a bright, cool winter's night two sleigh loads of college freshmen and sophomores set out to enjoy the sparkling snow. Later, the college boys were hosts to the group at the "Frat" house where they served sandwiches and coffee. After the washing of the dishes, by the girls, the happy party broke up.

The college sophomores have enjoyed their last year at Spring Arbor, and through all our future its memory will stay with us.

—Edith Logan.

COLLEGE FRESHMEN REPORT

Somewhere among the annals of classic literature we find these words: "The secret of success is constancy of purpose." That the College Freshman class realize the truth of this statement has been proved by the attitude which the class as a whole have taken toward their work this year. Not only has this pertained to the regular college course, but to the outside activities as well. As we are the first college Freshman class in the history of the Junior College to produce any debaters, we feel proud of our record and success. Besides debate, the class has also shown marked ability in declamation.

At the beginning of the year we were royally entertained by the College Sophs. The nature of the reception was entirely unknown to us. One day the Freshmen were told to dig in the gravel pit in the back of Dr. Smith's new home where we would find a treasure. Enclosed in a box we found a note guiding us to a place under the steps of the Town Hall. From here we were directed to go south until we came to a telephone pole on the left hand side of the road with a sign on it. Here we found directions to turn to the left at the first corner and to stop at the second house on the right-hand side of the road. We were surprised and very happy to find ourselves at the home of Ora Sprague, one of the loyal college sophomores. Of course, we were obliged to have some kind of initiation, so we were all asked to wear little green caps, while our soph friends were distinguished by being able to wear caps of a preferable color. Needless to say, this did not detract any from the pleasure of the evening for us freshies. Among the many pleasures during the reception, we enjoyed a wonderful, old-fashioned taffy-pull. This type of entertainment caused many a shout of merriment and proved very pleasant entertainment. Next, we enjoyed all kinds of games inside and out-of-doors. Never will we forget this pleasant reception and the fact that we decided we would certainly have a happy year together.

Once more we were privileged to be entertained by the sophs, but this time it was the Literary Society. The evening which was set aside for the high school hikes was chosen by the sophomores and it was a very appropriate time. We all gathered in the reception room where we had a very pleasant chat until dinner was served. The tables were arranged in the new part of the dining room. During the meal we were entertained by a short program. Later in the evening many games were played by all of us in the reception room.

Shortly before Christmas our class made an informal visit at the home of our faculty advisors, Prof. and Mrs. Townes. We were able to surprise them a little, and were pleased to remember them at that season of the year. Prof. and Mrs. Townes received us very cordially, as they always do, and before leaving we received urgent invitations to come again.

Perhaps, the crowning event of the year was our college sleigh ride party. A very excited group of young people met at the College Boys' Hall at seven o'clock one beautiful winter evening. Waiting for us were two sleighs which we all greeted with enthusiasm. With many peppy yells we left the campus and started out on one of the many country roads which surround Spring Arbor. On the way we passed the haunted house which many of us visited and received some new thrills. Our faculty added a great deal of life to our already enthusiastic group; so we had a very exciting evening. After coming back to the village, we went once more to the College Boys' Hall where we participated in many games and enjoyed a very good lunch before leaving.

—Escele Bodine.

SENIOR REPORT

One morning in late September many of our friends and roommates wakened to find some of their friends gone. When they took roll and found that the missing number consisted entirely of Seniors they were almost sure the millenium had arrived when one should be taken and the other left, but finally they remembered that there was such a thing as Senior skip day and came to the humiliating conclusion that the Seniors had given them the slip. This was "prezactly" what had happened. At the ghostly hour of three had anyone been as ambitious as were the Seniors, they might have seen dark forms stealing from the several dormitories and homes where Seniors were known to abide and drive off in cars.

A hurried but delicious breakfast was eaten at the home of Thelma Videto, one of our members. The party then set out for Lansing and arrived there at five-thirty. As the Capitol building was not opened until seven-thirty, we put in the time riding around viewing the scenery and visiting Potter's Park. Some of the girls could not figure out why, when you pick a guinea pig up by its tail, its eyes will fall out. Every member of the class climbed to the top of the dome of the Capitol building and learned many details of construction en route.

After visiting the museum at the State House, we journeyed to Williamston, where we dined. From thence we wended our merry way to the home of a relative of Dempster Campbell. Here all indulged in a game of baseball. Carl Jacobson and Lawrence Fink chose up sides and Carl's side won. As this had tired us somewhat, we decided to adjourn to Pine Lake. Here boats were hired and we had an hour's row on the lake. Back to supper at five. Eighteen pounds of chicken and twenty-five pounds of potatoes. Good? Well—we should shout it was! Back just as assembly let out. Of all the noise!

The Juniors royally welcomed the prodigals the next day and the Seniors distributed their gifts, gave some yells, and sang a song to the Juniors which had been composed by one of the class members and was sung to the tune of Yankee Doodle.

Shortly after this the Seniors entertained the Sophomores. After a hike of four miles we pitched camp and set the kettle a-boiling. Games filled the time between arrival and time to eat and then it was hot dogs, rolls, coffee, and—well, lots more. Back at nine.

When January's snow and ice made sleighing just right,

The Seniors hitched the old team up and started off one night.

After a long ride intermixed with snow frolics we returned and had coffee and fried cakes at the home of Prof. Updyke. Then back home.

After we came back from Spring vacation preparations went on apace for Senior Week. This was the first activity of its kind in Spring Arbor. It opened with the Senior Week. This was the first activity of its kind in Spring Arbor. It opened with Senior party.

This year has been a very active and enjoyable one and will always be remembered as a bright spot in our lives.

—Frances Pearce.

Senior Class History

In the year 1926, twenty-five green freshies met to elect officers to supervise our class activities for the first semester. 'Though we were green, we did not show that side of our nature when we selected Harold Cox for our president. As his helper, we elected Wesley Buhl. Harold Andrews and Ethel Bailey were elected for secretary and treasurer respectively. Many functions and good times were enjoyed by all of us, although, of course, we met with many taunts and jeers of "freshie" and "green." To show our contempt for the latter of these nicknames we chose as our class colors green and white. At the beginning of each new school year we have shown our satisfaction in this choice, for we still wear these colors proudly. Our officers for the second term were no less worthy than the preceding ones. Elwood Holton we elected for president, Freda Huffman for vice-president, and Thelma Videto for treasurer. We selected for our honorary member Miss Vore, who kindly consented to join us, and we found her a very helpful adviser.

By the time we reached our sophomore year we had worn off some of our shyness and were beginning to make our mark in the world. Elwood Holton was again elected for president, and Harold Andrews, Faye Sayre, and Fletcher McCallum filled the next three highest offices. These performed their duties well during the first semester, but were replaced by Leonard Goldsmith, Albert Welsh, Faye Sayre, and Harold Cox during the last half of the year. We had not yet learned the secret of reelecting a worthy officer. It was necessary for us to find a new adviser, for Miss Vore had not returned. We chose Prof. and Mrs. Updyke, who in the last three years have proved their wonderful ability as helpers and counsellors.

When we met in '28, to our surprise and pleasure, we had gained one member which made our number as large as it had been when we started in high school. We did our best in electing officers and as the time passed by continued in the belief that we had had made no mistake. During the first semester Miss Guffey served our class diligently. However, we were forced to choose a successor to her, for she left school on account of sickness. The second half of the year Mr. Wesley Buhl served us as diligently as had Miss Guffey. The school year of '28-'29 ended with some victories for us. Our class had received the highest honors in the Declamatory Contest, as the preceding year, and also had won the girls' basket ball tournament.

Now we are Seniors. At last we have attained the long-looked-for. Our class is still small, but we refuse to say insignificant, for we don't believe we are that. From our ranks has come the Mayor of our school, one of our debaters, and both prize winners of the Oratorical Contest. Our soccer team, too, has proved successful in winning a tournament between high school and college men.

We do not believe that what we have attained has been wholly due to our ability. It has come through patient and continuous toil on the part of presidents, the last of whom was Miss Edith Bull, a very worthy officer, and through the persistent efforts of our faculty, and especially through the advice and assistance of our faculty advisors, Prof. and Mrs. Updyke.

We hope to graduate in the new Auditorium-Gymnasium this year, a privilege which has been bestowed on no other class.

How hard our teachers, fellow students, and pastors have worked and prayed and planned for us all only God knows, but we appreciate their efforts and can only leave their reward with God, trusting that in His own way He will bless and return to them the kindnesses so freely bestowed upon us.

I believe each one of my classmates will say with me, "May God bless and prosper our own dear school, Spring Arbor Seminary and Junior College, and help her to continue to uphold the standards for which she was established."

Not one member of our class will ever forget Spring Arbor, and we say in parting, those lines which so many have said before us, with a deeper feeling than ever before:

"S. A. S. we'll ne'er forget thee,
'Though we scatter far,
'Bides within our hearts thy mem'ries,
As the morning star."

—Helen Fletcher.

JUNIOR CLASS REPORT

Nearly three years have passed since we, the Class of '31, first entered Spring Arbor Seminary as green, homesick Freshies, and chose as our class adviser Miss Dorothy Ray, to whom we owe much of the degree of success attained in our Freshman year. We existed in the usual Freshman manner, laughing and gay, until some of us, by sad mischance, or perhaps because of our own folly, emerged from certain trials, called examinations, a sadder and wiser group. However, we soon became accustomed to these peculiar tribulations and learned to count them among the "necessary evils" of a poor Freshman's life.

Most of us landed safely in the harbor of the peaceful waters of passing grades, only to set forth again on the stormy seas of our Sophomore year. We found that our faithful guide, Miss Ray, had left us by the road called matrimony. We were very fortunate, however, to secure Prof. and Mrs. Banks as our class advisors and friends. We were still "lower classmen," but had passed from the humiliation of the Freshie ranks. We made our mark in the athletic field of activities, capturing first honors in the interclass men's basketball tournament, and second honors in ladies' basketball. We also took second place in track.

Passing the second milestone of our journey, we entered the ranks of that exalted group called Upper Classmen. Soon after we returned to S. A. S. last September, our class, much changed in many respects, especially as to personnel, but improved in all respects, took part in the annual all-school picnic. Each one enjoyed himself to the limit, taking part in all sports from "indoor" and tennis to eating. Not long after this, the Juniors entertained their sister class, the Freshmen, taking them on a hike and giving them a picnic with all its varied enjoyments.

Although we are now juniors, we are still subject to very humiliating occurrences. This was especially manifested last autumn when the Seniors very unexpectedly fled from our midst for their "Skip Day," and—horror of horrors—we failed to even so much as interfere, to say nothing of stopping them on their adventurous journey. However, we believe in the "Golden Rule," and what we did, or rather what we failed to do, is exactly what we shall want done by us when we finally belong to that high and lofty class known as Seniors.

On March 12 the Junior held a class function in the Town Hall, where our new honorary member, Master Wilson Palmer Banks, was duly initiated and presented with a high chair, which we all sincerely hope he will soon be able to appreciate.

Among the members of our illustrious class, we were especially favored by having the individual who won second honors in the high school declamatory contest, and also two of the three members of the High School Debating team.

But among all our other activities, mental and physical, we have not forgotten the spiritual side of our natures. We have not forgotten that without God's help all our efforts would have been in vain; without His aid and guidance our educations would avail us nothing. Our dearest hope is that each member of our class, "the Class of '31," may give his heart to Jesus. We feel that in this, and in this only, can we truly succeed in life.

—Harriette G. Warner.

SOPHOMORE CLASS REPORT

Once while glancing through the pages of history these wonderful words made a mental as well as physical picture come before us, "We must climb to reach the summit!" Everyone desires to reach some point of superiority but to do it, is the question. Ruskin said, "Do you desire to enter?" "Pass!" "Do you desire to be the companion of nobles?" "Make yourself more noble and you shall be!"

True life is a long winding pathway. Sometimes the road is uphill; sometimes down; but ever up! Look up! If the climbing is hard, we raise our heads and look at the clear, blue sky dotted here and there with fleecy, white clouds.

We, the class of '32, if we are willing to do our part, will succeed!

In order to have a little excitement and also break the great monotony of our lessons, we were most enjoyably entertained by our sister class, the Seniors, on a hike south-east of Spring Arbor. In the spring we are anticipating to try to repay them for their entertaining us.

Our honorary member, Miss Matthewson, has been a great source of encouragement to us, especially in times of gloom and despair, because she believes, and we are persuaded also to believe, as George Elliot, that "No great deed is accomplished by fathers, who ask for certainty."

FRESHMAN CLASS REPORT

We are starting on a journey to Sophomore Junction. We expect to reach there about the first of June. The road is upgrade and is not all paved. It is slippery at times, and our progress is slow; but if we will watch our step and take the advice that is given to us, we are sure to reach there with some surplus energy to start on the next lap of the journey the following September.

We had been on the way about two weeks when we came to the tourist's camp where our all-school picnic was being held. We stopped and spent a fine afternoon associating with the other classes. After we had had lunch together, we again started on our way. We travelled along for some time, meeting the difficulties as they came, when the Juniors, our sister class, invited us to spend the evening with them. They did everything that they could to add to our pleasure. After we had eaten of the bounteous lunch they had prepared for us, we gathered around the campfire, singing and telling stories. We again had to bid adieu and start on our journey.

As we are marching ahead each day, we find new place of interest. There are so many new and beautiful sights ahead that we scarcely have time to look back over the road we have come. One of the things that stands out in our memory is the pleasant sleigh-ride we took together. We went to the home of Miss Beck, one of our classmates, and there enjoyed a very pleasant evening, playing games until the refreshments which were provided for us were served. Our trip back to S. A. S. seemed a very short one.

Mrs. Brown, our highly esteemed class, adviser, enters into the joys and sorrows that come to us as we journey along, giving advice by word and example.

We notice that the sun is rising earlier every morning, and it reminds us that June will soon be here. We are looking forward to one more rest camp where we will entertain the Juniors. After this we expect to spend some time in the green fields and on the pleasant lakes that are beckoning to us.

The path ahead may look dreary,
The hills in our way look steep,
Let us keep our face looking cheery,
Be careful the words that we speak.

—Sarah Hoyt.

Pre-Academic Department

INTERMEDIATE REPORT

We started our voyage about September third, nineteen hundred twenty-nine. The waters were smooth, when we began, but soon they became rougher and stormier until it seemed we could hardly go; still, we would not give up. Each morning opened with reading from the Bible and having prayer, which encouraged us very much.

We also had a great many good times even during the storms. We cast anchor in October for a party. At Christmas time we stopped, found a tree, and had a party on board. In January we went to land and had a sleigh-ride party which we enjoyed greatly. But after the parties were over it was upstream work, and we had to spend most of our time for that.

Soon it began to get smoother again, and now, as we, the twenty-seven Intermediate students are nearly at the end of our voyage, we feel happy and are glad that we struggled so hard, for now we feel ready for harder storms and longer voyages which we know we will have to go through sometime in the near future. And as some of us are leaving this group among whom we have had so many good times, we thank our teacher for her kindness and patience with us.

We are glad that we have the chance to be in a Christian school with a Christian influence over us.

—Betty Ellen Cox.

Prof. Huffmann,
Instructor in Orchestral Instruments

Music is an art which must be considered as an important factor in the history of the world's civilization. Our Music School is continuing year by year to bring out this important factor in the history of Spring Arbor Seminary and Junior College. We are up and going—and growing. We are very pleased over the increase in enrollment this year.

Theoretical Courses have been conducted in Music History, Harmony I and II, Ensemble, and Normal.

Prof. Huffmann has a very encouraging class in orchestral instruments. The enrollment was sixteen for this past school year.

Because of Prof. Lowell's efforts we have a fine fifteen-piece orchestra, with new recruits coming in next year. We are proud of our orchestra; it holds an important place in our school.

The piano students cover a large part of the enrollment in the Music School. We classify them into Elementary, Intermediate and Advanced grades. The piano students have done good work for both Mrs. Lowell and myself. Besides the large number of private piano students there have been several piano class groups in which some interesting work has been done. Those who have registered for piano and voice this year number eighty-three.

We must not forget to mention the Primary and Intermediate Grades. They have been visited at regular periods during the week and given work in note reading and the various sides of music study. In the Intermediate room we have a Harmonica Band which has proved of interest to the girls and boys. They play all of their numbers by note.

In the Primary room we have a Toy Symphony Orchestra, often called a Rhythm Band. This is a most effective means of leading the small child to appreciate music. He gains a habit of attentive listening. The orchestra plays from printed orchestrated music purposely arranged for Toy Symphonies. Some of our numbers are Verdi's "Anvil Chorus," Schubert's "Marche Militaire," and Grieg's "Anitra's Dance." One of our aims in having this orchestra is to develop the child's taste for different effects of instrumental combination and for the fitness of certain instruments for certain tunes.

Our recitals this year have proved beneficial in many ways. Every branch of the School of Music has been represented in them.

Very good work under the directorship of Prof. Lowell was done by both the general Chorus and the A Cappella Chorus, of which mention is made elsewhere in this book.

This year it has been made possible, for those who desired, to attend the artists' concerts at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. These concerts have been a great inspiration to our music students. It has been their privilege to hear such world renowned artists as Jascha Heifetz, Vladimir Horowitz, and others of equal renown.

We observed National Music Week with a series of five programmes during the first week in May. All branches of our Music School were represented, and faculty members presented one of the programmes.

THE A CAPPELLA CHORUS

In the organizing of an a cappella Chorus at Spring Arbor two objects have been in view. It is believed that a careful study of the fine old hymns of the Church and a thorough training in the singing of them will enable our young people to become a force in raising the standard of appreciation of Christian music and in assisting the individual churches to sing better what they sing. If these ideals are realized in a moderate degree, we shall feel rewarded for the hours of study and preparation. It has been said that the biggest room in the world is the room for improvement. This is certainly true in regard to our hymn singing.

The first requirement for membership in this chorus is Christian character. We believe that spiritual sympathy with the content of the hymn is necessary for the most effective singing. Of course, many hours have to be spent in hard work and mastering the words and music, for the chorus sings entirely from memory and without accompaniment. The work is not a pastime. However, we all find it a real pleasure and even more, a spiritual benefit not realized in any other way.

The chorus made its first public appearance at the Coliseum in Toledo, Ohio, in connection with a service held by Rev. N. C. Beskin. At the time of this writing, several tours are in prospect which will probably include the following points: Kalamazoo, Coldwater, Grand Rapids, Flint, Jackson and St. Louis. The Ohio tour will reach the cities of Canton, Akron, Cleveland, and Toledo.

—LeRoy M. Lowell.

Thus long ago,
Ere heaving bellows learned to blow,
While organs yet were mute,
Timotheus, to his breathing flute
And sounding lyre,
Could swell the soul to rage, or kindle soft desire.
At last divine Cecilia came,
Inventress of the vocal frame;
The sweet enthusiast, from her sacred store,
Enlarged the former narrow bounds,
And added length to solemn sounds,
With Nature's mother-wit, and arts unknown before.
Let old Timotheus yield the prize,
Or both divide the crown:
He raised a mortal to the skies;
She drew an angel down.

—Dryden.

BIBLE DEPARTMENT

Under the able leadership of Professor LeRoy M. Lowell, the head of the Bible department, and with the assistance of two other well-equipped instructors, Professor Walker M. Townes of the Junior College history department and Mrs. Carolyn V. Brown, instructor in Bible and Religious Education, the work in the religious and biblical instruction has enjoyed a most prosperous year. The enrollment of nearly one hundred in the various courses testifies to the popularity of this phase of the work done at Spring Arbor. This year the following courses have been offered: New Testament Greek; Old Testament Bible; New Testament Bible; Homiletics; Church History, and Religious Education. Other courses in Bible, Theology, Ethics, Hymnology and Song Leadership are offered in alternate years, thus providing the students in this department of study a well-rounded curriculum.

It has always been, and still is, the policy of the administration to give work that will materially aid the individuals who feel called to some definite phase of Christian activity, but whose previous training has not included any foundational work such as is ordinarily given in the high schools. The school of religion gives a three-year and a four-year Bible course to students of high school rank and a two-year course to high school graduates. Since the complete courses include besides the purely theological subjects some academic studies on both the high school and college levels, it is possible with proper selection of courses to graduate from the high school at the end of the fourth year and from the Junior College at the end of the second year.

Other students not called to any particular form of religious service find some of the offerings of this department decidedly valuable from a cultural point of view, equipping them for valuable service as laymen in the church and Sunday School. Further information concerning the work in Bible may be secured through the catalog or by correspondence with the head of the department.

—Howard E. Updyke, Dean.

THEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT

Second Row—Forest Gallop, Edward Issacson, Wesley Buhl, Henry Rice, Leonard Goldsmith, Millin Stevens.

First Row—Mrs. Nellie Artlip, Mrs. Sams, Mrs. Brown, Mr. Townes, Mr. Lowell, Mr. Updyke, Rev. Cunningham.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

The commercial department is one which should appeal to every student, for in everyone's life there will come an occasion to use the principles learned in a practical business course.

A person in any profession—even a Free Methodist preacher in the conduct of his circuit—will find it to his advantage to know some of the usages and principles of business. The school teacher who advances to an administrative position, the farmer, and the mechanic who develop skill in their respective lines and who find doors open for them to transact business, will be thankful for the lessons learned in accounting and business administration.

Everyone agrees that in the business world one of the best stepping stones to executive and administrative positions is a course in shorthand and typewriting, since the way is often open for secretarial positions which put the stenographer in closer touch with the business house than anyone else. By means of contacts thus made, many a young person has made rapid advancement in the commercial realm.

During the past year, various new phases of the technique of office work have been introduced in this department. Among these are the monthly speed and accuracy tests for which awards have been received from the typewriter companies. These tests have stimulated classroom activity. Also special attention has been given to punctuation and short-cuts in the operation of typewriter mechanics, to enlarge the scope of business training. Through the study of business letters the shorthand classes have gained a broader background in commercial letter writing. In addition to this, the members of the advanced shorthand class have taken dictation of business letters at the school office to acquaint them with actual stenographic work.

Besides this, the commercial classes attended an instructive typing demonstration at Jackson featuring Barney Stapert whose official record is 129 net five-stroke words per minute for one hour, and who ranks third among the world's champion typists.

Students will find speed, system, and accuracy, which are emphasized in the commercial department, to be of inestimable value to them in any walk of life.

THE BIBLE CONFERENCE

APRIL 7—11

There is something about a conference that almost magically changes the atmosphere of the place in which it is held. Even a secular conference produces certain uplifting effects, such as driving away the hum-drum atmosphere that naturally surrounds the everyday run of life, injecting a spirit of good-will into men's minds, broadening bands of acquaintanceship and fellowship, and giving men new or different outlooks on life.

The Spring Arbor Bible Conference has done all of this—and much more, due to the deep vein of spirituality running thru the program. From the first sermon of Bishop Griffith's to the last, the whole program was characterized by the closest attention to the leadings of God. Not only were people inspired, but a number found new life thru Jesus Christ at the altar services.

It would be impossible in so small space to try to give full commendation or notice of every address. We must be satisfied with merely a cursory backward glance at the series.

Bishop G. W. Griffith spoke five times on the general theme of our church's problems, suggesting sound solutions for them. Such a series of addresses cannot help producing a quickening effect on those who heard them, and, thru them, on the whole territory represented by the conference guests.

On Thursday Dr. George L. Robinson of McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, brought messages from archeology in the confirmation of Bible history. Rev. W. V. Miller, former principal of our Seminary, delivered four most scholarly addresses on various Old Testament types of Christian experience.

Rev. W. J. Cross, Sr., remembered by all who attended last year's conference read papers approaching the Book of Acts from three angles: review, analysis and interpretation. The conference was most fortunate in having Mrs. Lillian B. Griffith represent in three inspiring addresses the missionary problem of our church. Rev. J. B. Cunningham addressed the conference on themes involving the Christian's practical life.

Prof. L. M. Lowell presented in four addresses methods and principles for the conduct of the preacher in his study and pulpit. He inspired his listeners and fed them with many valuable suggestions.

The evening services, with the exception of the one devoted to Dr. Robinson's last lecture on archeology, were given to evangelical efforts. Rev. E. A. Andrews preached Tuesday evening, and Rev. O. L. Mumaw of the Wabash Conference preached Wednesday evening.

STUDENT FACULTY CO-OPERATIVE GOVERNMENT

Experience is a good teacher, provided it is teaching in the proper channel; and we wish to express that with three years' experience of self controlled Student Government a spirit of enthusiasm and cooperation has been worked up among all in the student body.

The students are building character and are setting examples of their future conduct and citizenship while here. The most honoured citizens of our State or Country are those who have put forth a conscientious effort to become law abiding citizens, not after they become twenty-one, but while in their 'teens or even before that, as they recognize when they are trespassing, refrain from it, and cooperate with their fellow-men.

Because of this splendid spirit that the student body has shown, Student Government has been possible, and I am convinced that it not only will be successful as it has been, but will continue to get better as the years rotate.

Possibly you may wonder whether Student Faculty Cooperative Government has made much progress. The student council which consists of mayor, acting as chairman, and the remaining student officers with an addition of two faculty members, all, except one, elected by the student body, acts very nicely as council and jury. If you would step into the classroom, while the Student Council is in session, you would either witness a real court scene where just verdicts are rendered or see the council discussing problems of the institution such as some of the assembly rules, the proper budgeting of the student activity fees, or making some plan whereby the students as a whole could be bettered.

These meetings are carried on with great interest and sincerity of heart on the part of the council, but they never forget to recognize the faculty as higher authority. When necessary a joint session of Student Council and Faculty is held for the sake of trying, collectively, to discuss and elevate the ideals of all concerned in all the various departments of this school.

History, both sacred and secular, impresses us with the fact that the work of God has always been carried on through a sacrifice of temporal interests and comforts by those who are the human instruments in God's hands. In order that Moses should be equipped to lead the Israelites out of Egypt, it was necessary for him to forfeit the pleasures of Pharaoh's court and serve as a sheep-herder on the far side of the mount. In more modern secular history we have the well known account of David Livingstone's life and work in exploring the "Dark Continent." For years, he was lost to the outside world; extreme hardships were endured; suffering and privation was the rule rather than the exception; even bosom friends were left behind; yet his life was a success, for it was God-planned. Even so did Jesus, the "Son of God," endure hardship to the fullest extent. He said, "Foxes have holes and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath not where to lay His head." Beautiful language, yet carrying with it a pathetic note. His life accomplished the Divine purpose, not by ease and luxury, but rather by constant self-denial and sacrifice.

The name of our organization has been chosen as the Ministerial Association, because it includes not only the field of the Christian Ministry, but Missionary work, the cause of Christian Education, Sunday School work, and other fields into which God may lead us to do a special work. God's work has always been carried on by men and women who have had a true revelation of spiritual things. Contrary to the popular opinion of the world, the "Soldiers of the Cross" in the past have been those who have had real metal in their character, and who were ready to "do and die" for the cause they loved.

In our group there are those who have heard the call of the "Lord of the Harvest" and are now making the preparation necessary to enter into their appointed work. We are sure that the same noble spirit of service which burned so brightly in the hearts and lives of those who have lived before us, still burns in our own hearts and helps us to sing with meaning and fervor—

"We'll girdle the globe with salvation,
With Holiness unto the Lord;
And light shall illumine each nation,
The light from the lamp of His word."

The Church

The greatest achievement of any man is to live well. However, unless trained in the fine art, success seldom comes. We are told that a realization of this fact brought Spring Arbor Seminary and Junior College into existence. It is the writer's profound conviction that President Smith, financial agent Kelley, and every member of its most excellent faculty have this one great end in view now.

The Spring Arbor Free Methodist Church rejoices that it has a part in such a program, and not by trespassing on the domain of the pedagogue, nor interfering with scholastic standard or method. Her part is to help create a proper moral-spiritual atmosphere, to hold high a proper moral-spiritual standard, to, as far as possible, help the students harmonize themselves to that great irrevocable, unchangeable law of successful living, a proper relationship to God and eternal destiny.

The Church feels that its relationship to the school is at once a great responsibility and a great privilege. A great responsibility in that the spiritual welfare of the students, in a large measure, depends upon it; and a great privilege in that its gospel may thus become the dominating factor in their lives and so spread to the far corners of this poor world. The Church has an undying interest in everyone coming to Spring Arbor. It is her fond hope that when the records are all made, she will not have labored in vain. Granted this, she will ask for no greater reward.

—J. B. Cunningham.

The Field

A man that lives in one of the largest and best cities in Michigan said to me one day, "We have as good and as well equipped schools in this city as any place in the state—why have a school like Spring Arbor Seminary?" And then he answered his own question by saying, "But you at Spring Arbor have the influence, environment, Christian teachers, the reading of the Bible, all of that which tends to the development of the spiritual nature."

One of the saddest things that I meet in the territory is to see so many of our young people controlled by the enemy of all good. I have said many times that I wish I could place a wall, so thick, so high around our young people that the devil could not get through. If we lose our children, what have we left? Amass a fortune, spread Persian rugs on your floors, fill your home with mahogany, sit under the most beautiful chandelier lights, ride down the road in a magnificent car, but if your children are going to the devil, you cannot be happy.

We need Spring Arbor Seminary. We need a place, a school with just such an environment. Let us not only pray and pay but send our young people to this school.

—J. A. Kelley.

SECOND SEMESTER

The members of last year's College Literary Club were very pleased to have twenty-five new names added to our roll this year. The new members were welcomed at a reception given them in the Seminary dining room. Dinner was served, a short program given, and the evening was spent in playing games and getting acquainted.

We have endeavored to make the programs of this year instructive as well as entertaining. In an effort to increase the interest in, and love for, literature, the first program presented some of the best of Poe's works. These were well given by those taking part. At the beginning of the new year a debate was given, the subject being "New Year's Resolutions." Another of the programs was on the subject of music. We enjoyed the talk given on "Appreciation of Music" which made the remainder of the program of more value to us. The classical, humorous, and sacred phases of music were represented.

We have appreciated the interest which the new members as well as the old ones have taken and the spirit of cooperation which they have shown. Members of the faculty have also aided us in our programs for which we are very grateful.

We trust that the programs of this organization have been beneficial to all attending them, and that we may be able because of them, to give better service to God and to the world.

The Belles Lettres Literary Society was organized two and a half years ago. Because of the lack of interest in the one old Alathepian Literary society, it was decided to divide the entire high school student body into two groups. This having been done the competition between the students has been great, enabling us to have better programs. Each meeting this year is proving the plan more and more successful.

By giving every member an opportunity to appear on the programs it has greatly strengthened our students for life ahead of them. After making a few appearances and being called on for an impromptu speech, they lose their self-consciousness and only remember that they must do all they can to make their society the best.

Although our society has not been organized long, we do hope and feel that our reputation will be great and lasting. It is strongly believed that no one intentionally shirks his duty in the advancement of his own society, and with the high ideals and cooperation of every member we are sure of success.

—Thelma Videto.

Man is composed of a three-fold nature; the vital, the mental, and the emotional. It is the desire of this literary society to aid in the upbuilding of each, especially the mental. The physical organs which produce speech are aided in proper development, and it is impossible for one to participate in any program without much diligent mental research and concentration, thus stimulating the mind. Last, but not least, we restrict the contents of our programs to such material as cannot in any way prove detrimental to one's religious welfare and as may in many cases be beneficial.

We endeavor to entertain as well as educate, both being essential; we endeavor each time to follow a main theme, all numbers pointing in one direction.

Our government was founded on democratic principles, and we, a part of "Young America," have established our society on the same basis. In America the "latch-string hangs out." The same is true at our programs.

Through the diligent efforts of the program committee, the highest type of entertainment has been rendered, endeavor being made to offer something of such a nature that each may return home feeling that "Truly, it was good to be there!"

The name, the Life Service Society, is self explanatory, and well expresses the aim and purpose of this organization: service in every field of life. This society was originally organized for the purpose of pointing out to its members the number of different fields of Christian Service, and it has been fulfilling its purpose well during this year.

The first program was given on the Free Methodist Church in general, showing its members what wonderful men it has at its head, the hardships it has encountered, the number of its members, missions, and schools. We were made to feel that we are privileged to belong to this church which God has ordained. Another program was given on Christian Education in which each Free Methodist School was represented, some by faculty members of this institution who have attended them.

The Jewish people were given a broad study in one program, and in another every phase of Sunday School work was considered and many pointers were given on how to make our Sunday Schools better.

These programs have proved very helpful and beneficial, and more such programs are being planned for the future. We feel that the aim of the Society will be attained only as God uses it as a means of showing the Christian young people how they should better serve Him.

COLLEGE DEBATERS

JUNIOR COLLEGE DEBATING

The first year of debating at Spring Arbor Junior College resulted in a brilliant showing of Spring Arbor debaters against the largest Junior Colleges in the state and the initial forensic relations between one of our sister denominational colleges.

Below is the schedule of debates for the season:

March 3—Dual debate at Highland Park Junior College.

March 5—Jackson Junior College entertained here.

March 12—Dual debate at Grand Rapids Junior College.

March 14—Flint Junior College entertained here.

March 18—Return debate with Jackson at Jackson.

March 20—Return debate with Flint at Flint.

March 25—Greenville College entertained here.

In the eight debates against the four members of the Michigan Junior College debate league Spring Arbor lost but four debates, one to each of these schools. To break even with these schools in judged debates can but be considered a splendid achievement against these larger and more experienced schools.

The new auditorium was initiated in the final debate, a non-decision affair with our sister school, Greenville College, as opponents. Though a stormy night reduced the attendance, more than three hundred fifty people listened to this last debate.

Athletics in Spring Arbor

"Profitable recreation for all" would make a suitable slogan for the athletic department of Spring Arbor Seminary and Junior College. For in every action taken by this department the mass has been taken into consideration; no attempt has been made to develop star athletes, but effort has been put forth to give every student in the school opportunity for worthy use of leisure time as well as a means of obtaining sufficient bodily exercise to maintain health every day in the year.

By providing opportunity for pleasurable physical exercise, we are enabling every student who attends this institution to go away with a complete preparation for life. The spiritual and the mental sides have always had ample opportunity for development. But even today we are unable to say this about the physical. For there have been periods during the winter months when suitable activities for health development or maintainance were unavailable. However, this need not be true in the future, for the erection of the Auditorium-Gymnasium, which is now ready for use, assures winter and early spring sports as well as a place for instructive work in physical education.

We are indeed thankful that the gap has been bridged and that we need no longer let our students shift for themselves when they are too tired to study and too restless to sleep as a result of the daily grind. But we can provide a very profitable as well as enjoyable form of restoring mental energy. Games organized in the form of tournaments and officially sponsored are not only of benefit physically, mentally, and spiritually, but they give training in business and society, since the individual is required to play according to rule and is immediately at a loss if he fails to do so.

According to our present program inter-class tournaments in soccer for the men and volley ball for the ladies come in the fall with a tennis tournament for individual competition. During the winter months and early spring when all must be inside, basketball tournaments for both ladies and men are played off, with handball as a side line for individual competition. During April and May, a men's baseball tournament is run off while the ladies play indoor. Several track meets are held for both sexes.

Through the courtesy of alumni and friends trophies are awarded to the winners of the class tournaments and numerals are given to the members of the championship team.

—R. T. Banks.

College Freshmen Win Basket Ball Tournament

When each team had appeared in practice games before the basket ball tournament many thought that the College Frosh would have no competition and that the High School Freshmen and Sophomores would not be able to put up an interesting contest. After a few games were played no one knew just who did have the best team. No one was willing to make a guess as to what team would win any of the matches. Instead of having no competition the College Freshmen had to scratch for every game they won and they did not always win, for the Juniors succeeded in tying the score on one occasion. The Juniors lost to them in the second round. Thus the percentage tournament was won by the College Freshmen, with the Juniors and High School Freshmen their only close rivals.

In the elimination tournament the Sophomores and Seniors proved to be the winners until they came against each other and the Sophomores lost. This left the championship game between the Seniors and the College Frosh. The game, which was one of clean, fast playing and good sportsmanship, resulted in a tie score at the close of playing time. During the five minute over-time period a Senior guard was injured after which the College scored and held the lead until the timer's horn announced that they had won the championship.

SOCCER

No one yet has given a satisfactory explanation for the reversal of form among athletes. Last year the final soccer game was between the Seniors and Juniors. The Seniors gloriously fought their way to victory. This year the final game happened to be between the same two teams, now advanced one year, and the former victors went down to defeat by a close score.

Early in the season the Sophs and Seniors were favorites, but the College came from behind to win the right to play the final game with the Seniors.

In the first few minutes the College had scored two goals, only to have the score tied before the half. The second half opened with the Seniors scoring two more goals, holding their opponents scoreless. The College was unable to stop the onslaught of the avenging Seniors. The final score was 4 to 2 in the Seniors' favor.

GREETINGS

Several Alumni have sent in their greetings to the 1930 Echo as follows:

As a member of the second graduating class of Spring Arbor Seminary, I wish to express a word of appreciation to my Alma Mater.

Looking back over a life of over a half century spent in the ministry of the Free Methodist Church, I can think of no other human influences which have had more effect upon my character and work than the personalities met at Spring Arbor Seminary, prominent among these are: Professors Jones, Sadler, Warner and Stellwell.

I am also incalculably indebted to this school for my life Partner, Mrs. Martha Clark Stone, who was a member of the Class of 1885.

Rev. Seward W. Stone, Clio, Mich.

The Hayden family, Mrs. Hayden, three boys and I, send greetings to The Echo. I am located at the Ohio Agricultural Experimental Station as head of the dairy department.

We hope the Seminary has had a good year.

C. C. Hayden, Wooster, Ohio.

Spring Arbor Seminary gave me knowledge, instructed me in wisdom and cultivated a sense of understanding in me. She enriched my faith, quickened my trust in God and gave me moral convictions. Heaven has blessed her and she has blessed the world. Long let her live!

Glenn A. Hall, Rocky River, Ohio.

It was with great pleasure that I was permitted to wander back to Spring Arbor Seminary which in previous years featured so strongly in the formation of my character.

I wish to extend my greetings to all the Alumni and to The Echo for 1930.

H. E. Leiningar, '12. Flint, Mich.

Occasionally there comes into ones life a year especially favored with blessing and privilege—a time into which is crowded benign and compelling influences which make for force and enrichment of character.

Such a year was that of 1884 in the writer's memory. It stands high and almost sacred as succeeding years reveal more and more the strength and enlargement of vision resulting from the Christian training and wholesome associations of the school.

Too much cannot be said in her honor and of the inestimable good accomplished, as we consider the many who have gone from her halls to bless the world in various fields of Christian work and too much cannot be done for her advancement. God bless Spring Arbor Seminary!

(Mrs.) Maria Clark Ayland, Spring Arbor, Mich.

ALUMNI BANQUET

The annual banquet of the Alumni Association was held June 3 in the Seminary dining room. Nearly two hundred enjoyed meeting their old friends and classmates.

Ivan Zeller was the toastmaster and those who took part on the program were: Lyman Vincent, Dr. and Mrs. Smith, Evangel Miller, Violet Zeller, Prof. and Mrs. Lowell and Thelma Richard, besides several impromptu numbers.

The officers for the coming year are: President, Ivan Zeller, Vice-President, Ruth Crusius Towns; Secretary, Mattie Clark; Treasurer, Ora Sprague.

KEEPING ABREAST OF HOME FURNISHINGS PROGRESS?

Here's An Easy Way—

When you're in our neighborhood, with a few minutes to spare . . . early for an engagement . . . waiting for a matinee, or for a shower to let up . . . just drop into our showrooms and browse around. You'll see some mighty interesting new things. Feel free to come any time. We have no "high-pressure" salesmen—just trained, courteous employees always glad to see you and to make your visit worthwhile.

We also wish to take this opportunity to thank the many Spring Arborites who have patronized our store in the past—and to express our hearty congratulations to the Graduating Class of 1930.

Making the Grade . .

All through your scholastic years grades are important. They represent achievement. And in many cases certain grades present a standard that must be attained or exceeded before graduation is assured.

Consumers Power Company also has certain grades to make. We have set ourselves certain definite standards of service to the community that must be adhered to. Each year these standards grow more exacting, and as engineering science makes new discoveries and developments, they are passed along to the people in 433 Michigan cities and towns in the form of better electric and gas service. But for us there is no vacation, no graduation, for we must be on the job every day and night of the year. The needs for service never cease.
